SCHOOL

PATRICK J. MURNANE

Those qualities that we respect most in our contemporaries — those of leadership, dignity, understanding, and intelligence — are personified in the strong character of our principal. He has warmly encouraged our endeavors both in scholastic matters and extracurricular activities. Throughout our high school years he has provided us with guidance in all of the varied phases of our growth. His sincere interest in our welfare and future plans has stimulated our desire to prove ourselves worthy of the respect he has shown to us.

He, more than any other individual at Danbury High, has made possible the rebirth of our school. We are proud to dedicate this first all-school yearbook to our principal, Mr. Patrick J. Murnane.

Then shall the reign of mind commence on earth,
And starting fresh as from a second birth,
Man in the sunshine of the world's new spring
Shall walk transparent like some holy thing!

ADMINISTRATION

Edward A. Sillari

To Members of the Class of 1965:

My most sincere congratulations are extended to you upon the successful completion of four years of high school. This phase of your "growing up" represents a significant step toward the eventual maturity necessary for success in the activities of life which are yet to come.

Your last year has been full of trial and tribulation as you moved into a new school and found daily adjustment a necessary part of school life. The very excellent cooperation displayed by you, individually and collectively, has been noted and appreciated. It set the tone for the school as a whole. You were most helpful. The school will be a better one next year because of your willingness to help make it so. You can be pleased and proud that you helped "show the way" for those who will follow.

Many people will continue to be interested in you as you accept new challenges and accumulate new experiences. Coupled with their interest will be a fond hope that each of you will find it possible to realize your ambition.

May I add my personal best wishes for a lifetime filled with successful accomplishment in those affairs of life which you consider most important.

Most cordially,

Edward A. Sillari
Superintendent of Schools

SEATED: Rabbi Jerome R. Malino, Mrs. June Goodman, John J. Previdi, Mrs. Marcia McLachlan, Louis Klinzing, Miss Mildred Smith. STANDING: Richard G. Rausch, John W. Hoffer, Gino Arconti, Norman Buzaid, Charles I. Sweeney, Francis H. Stevens, Henry A. Rocano, Edward A. Sillari.

Richard Rausch
Associate Superintendent

There are many words of wisdom and admonition that I could offer at this point of beginning and ending, but they would be of little worth since I would be foisting my values on you. In this age, when too many desire to be submerged in the "Lonely Crowd," too few direct the lives of many. You must look into the mirror of your own lives and set your own values and goals. Above all, don't fly into anonymity, but rather form a pattern from Shakespeare's words,

To thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.

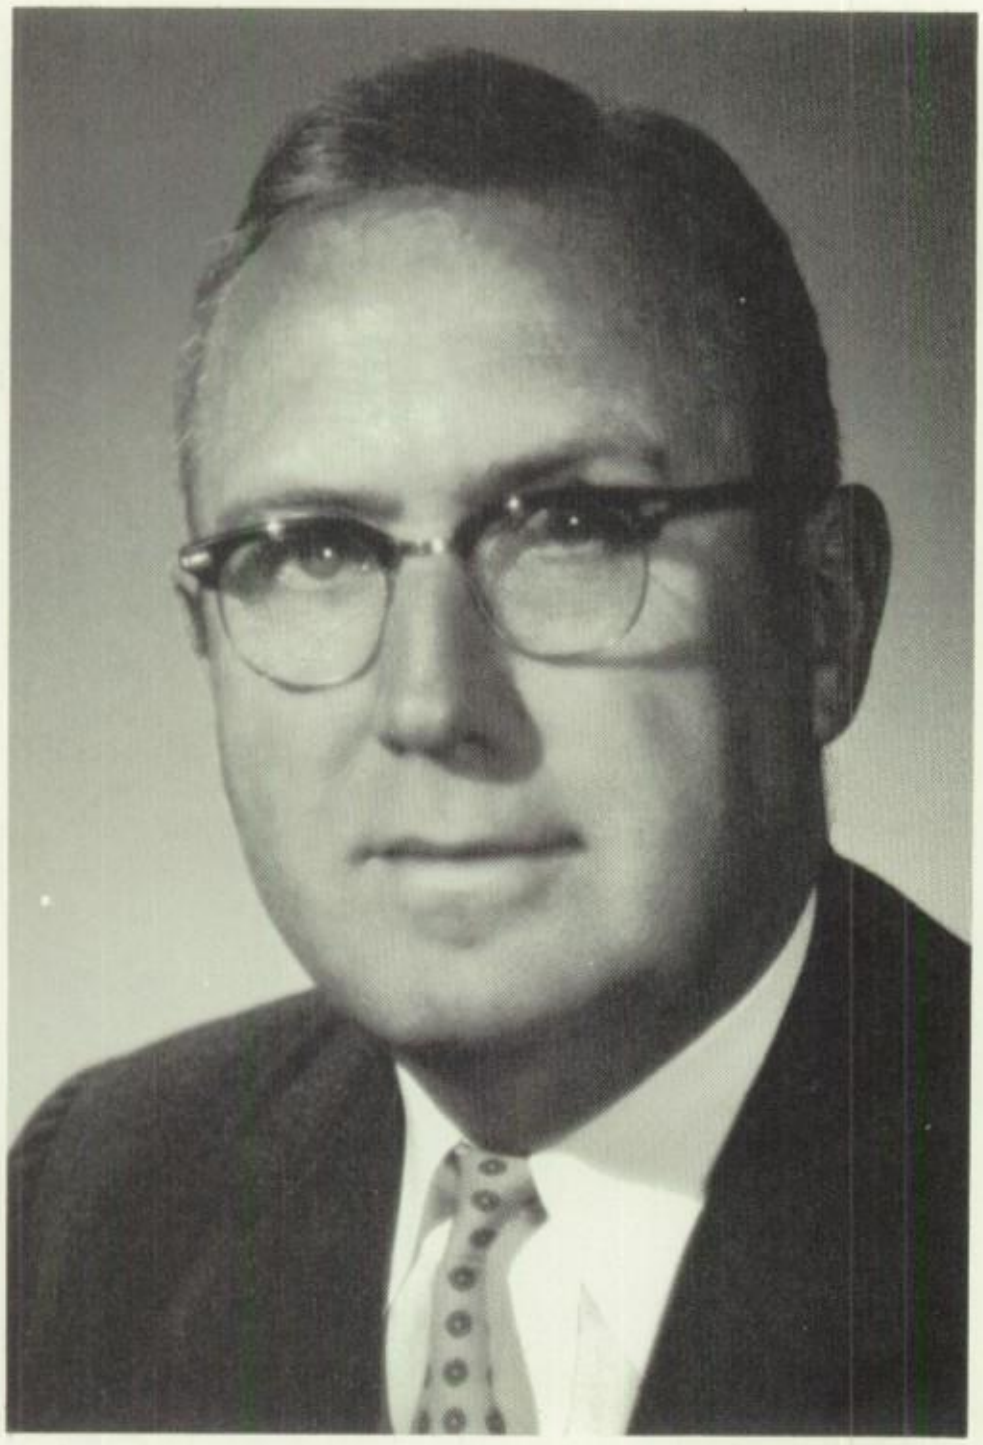
I have always thought it meaningful that the words used to signify a beginning also imply the opposite idea. For example, January is the first month of the year, in other words, a beginning. However, the word January comes from the name of a legendary deity, Janus, whom the Romans credited with the ability to preside over the gateways controlling both the beginning and end of important transactions. Janus, with his two faces, looks both to the hopes of the future and the lessons of the past.

For you who are graduating the exercises of ending your four years at Danbury High School are termed commencement. Remember that even with this commencement, in order to be successful, you must continue to learn. At the same time realize that the results of these past four years of endeavor cannot be immediately appreciated. The results will be commensurate with the efforts you have made here as individuals.

Sincerely,
Louis Klinzing
President, Board of Education



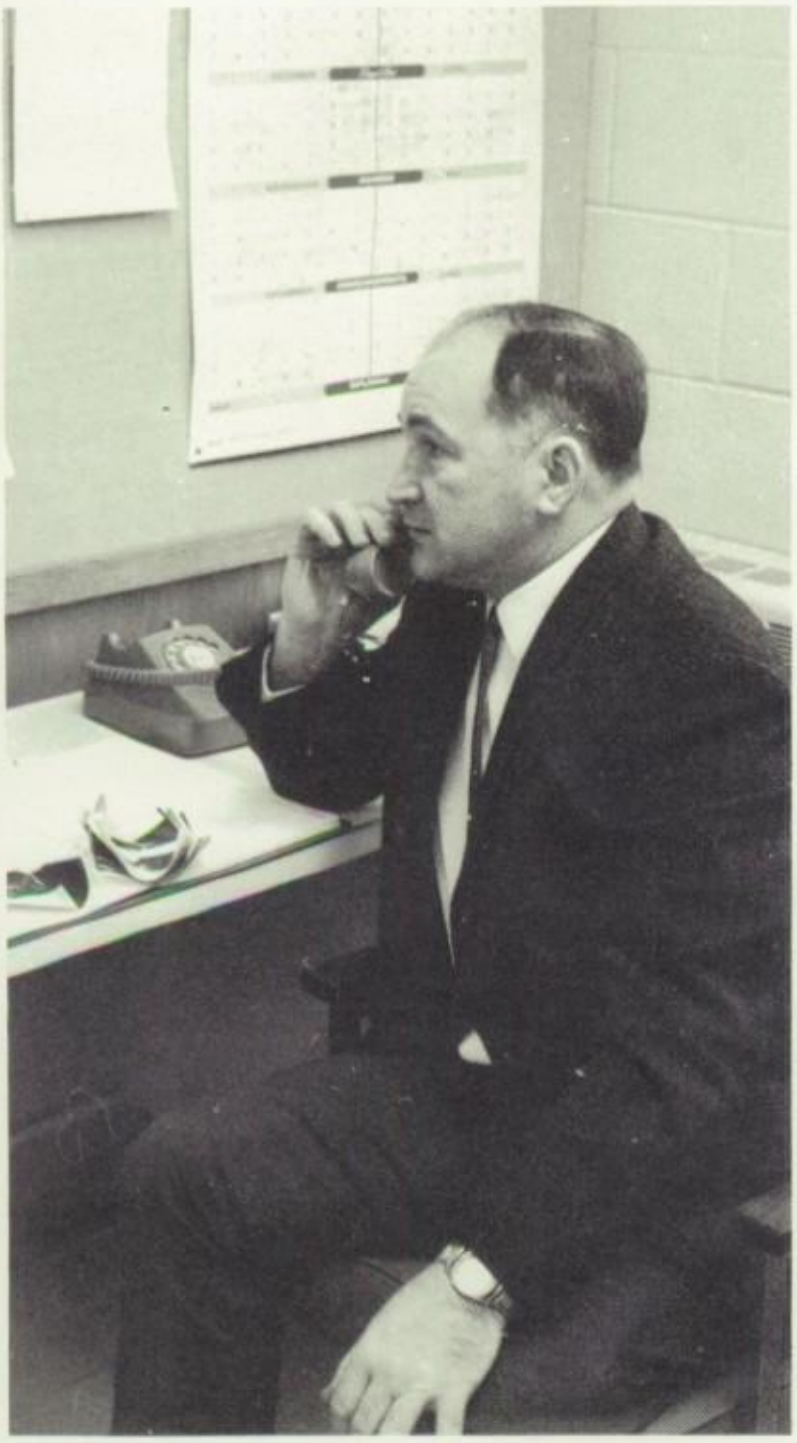
Patrick J. Murnane

It is especially appropriate that our beautiful new school have a yearbook equally new and beautiful. Both reflect a recognition of changing, more demanding times, an awareness of the opportunities to be grasped, of challenges to be met. In short, both signify a new era in Danbury education.

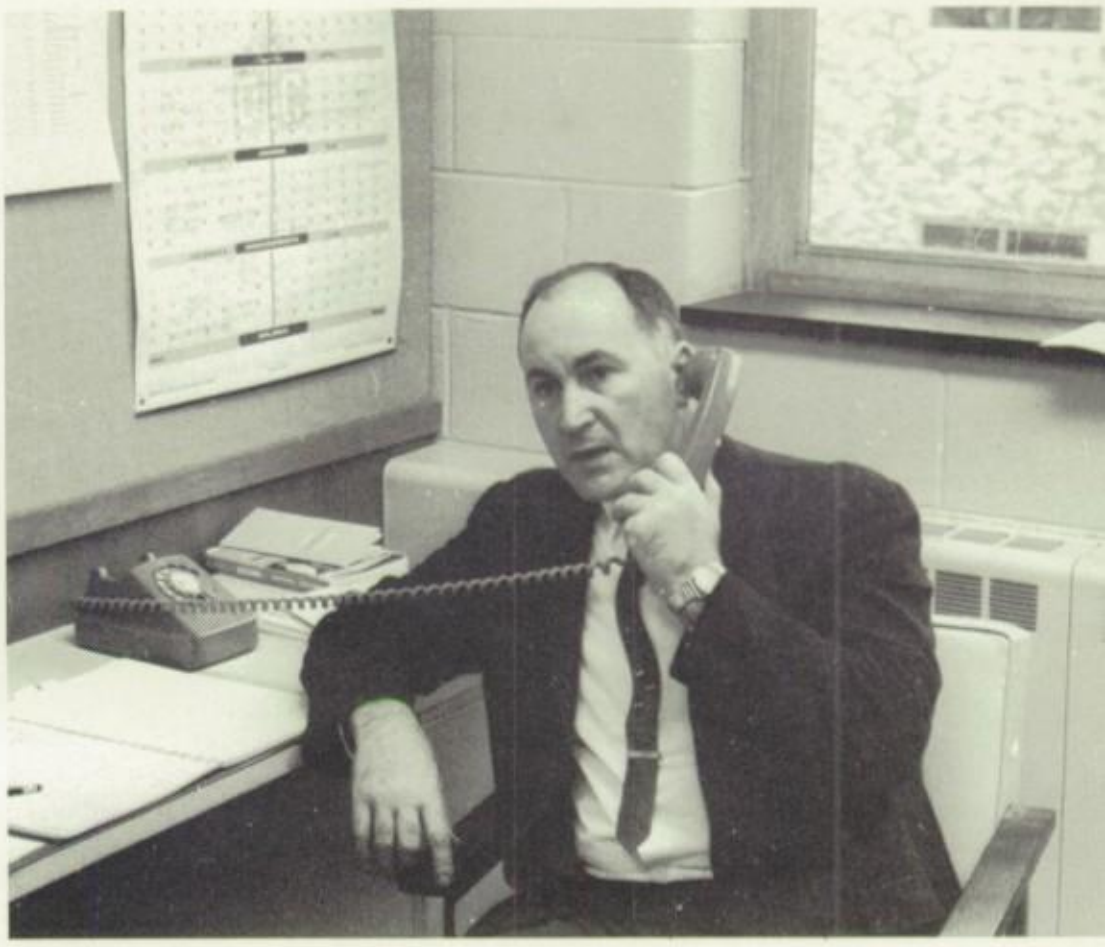
Any of us would be phlegmatic indeed if he did not react favorably to the opportunities around us. To work and study in an environment such as we now have cannot but make each of us deeply grateful to those who made it available and firm in our resolution to make the most of it.

Patrick J. Murnane

Principal



Emanuel A. Merullo



No other class in the history of Danbury High School has experienced as many changes during its four years as the Class of 1965. These years are perhaps the most significant in the history of Danbury. Within this span of years you have witnessed the extensive physical changes brought about by redevelopment. You have seen the change in government brought on by consolidation. You have been affected most directly by the many changes in the Danbury Public School System. Your role in the school innovations has been a vital one.

During the past four years you have experienced the end of double sessions, have seen changes in educational leadership, have been subjected to changes in school curricula and changed school facilities, have been affected by the change in school organization to the house plan, and have had to make other related changes.

Danbury as a community is not unique in its transformations. You are living in a world of mutations and permutations. Much of what is new today will soon be obsolete. This is the kind of world in which we now live. More than ever before your ability to accept change, to adjust, to be tolerant and flexible are important facets of your development.

My congratulations to you, the members of the Class of 1965, for the manner in which you have accepted these many changes, for your contributions toward the successful transition, and finally upon graduation.

If the ability to adjust to change, to be tolerant and flexible, is an important criterion for success in the days ahead, I'm sure that you are adequately prepared for the challenges ahead.

HOUSE ONE

Mr. Schmiedl attended Danbury High School, Mt. St. Mary's College and Fairfield University, where he is now working toward his professional certificate, or sixth year. As master of House One, he finds that his duties include supervision of classroom teachers and discipline. Despite his demanding job, Mr. Schmiedl finds time to attend sporting events and to listen to popular music.

When not guiding students, Mrs. Aderer, a new counselor at Danbury High, enjoys theatre work, politics, and community service. She has pursued her career in guidance at the University of Arizona and received her professional diploma from Columbia University.

J. Roger Schmiedl, House Master

Dolores Wimmer, Secretary

Mr. Mosesian, a new member of the Guidance Department, was originally from Haverhill, Massachusetts. He received his B.A. from Boston University, won an M.B.A. at the University of Chicago and his professional diploma from the University of Connecticut. He has been a guidance counselor for three years.

In his spare time, Mr. Mosesian enjoys music, especially the violin, and skiing.

Janice Aderer, Guidance

HOUSE TWO

An alumna and former social studies teacher of Danbury High, Miss Bennett is now the house master on the second floor. She is a graduate of Central Connecticut, received her master's degree from Yale, and attended N.Y.U. Among her favorite pastimes are gardening, bowling, and bridge.

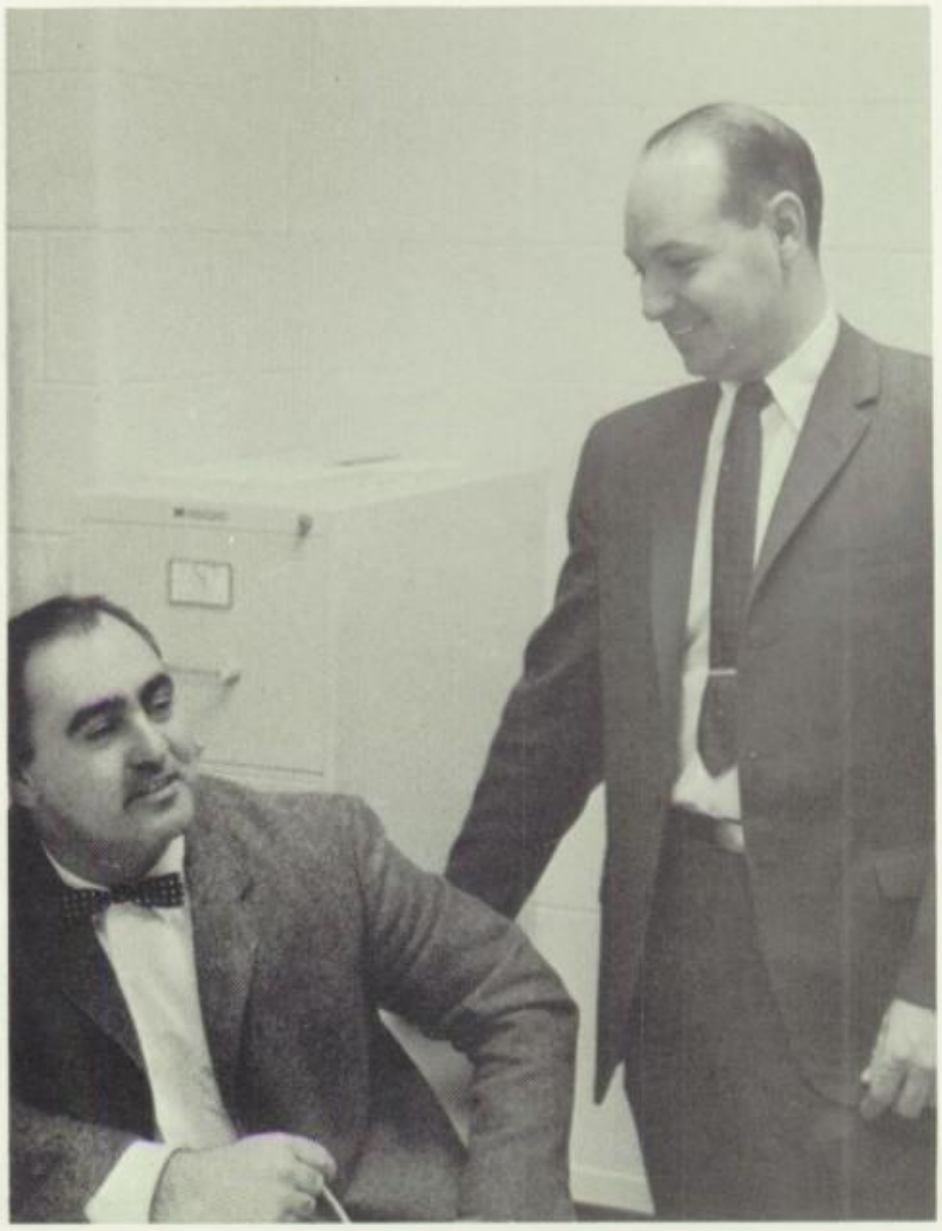
Enthusiastic about the house plan, Miss Bennett says "As an administrator I find that it works extremely well. The number of students is small enough so that individual attention is possible."

Mr. Rycroft hails from Newton, Massachusetts, and received his master's degree from Boston University. After serving for two years in the army in Colorado Springs, he taught at Woodbury High School, Woodbury, Connecticut.

Mr. Rycroft first became a guidance counselor when he came to Danbury. He enjoys the opportunity his work gives him to become well-acquainted with the students.

Born in Hopkinton, Massachusetts, Mr. Alberini spent most of his youth in the school systems of that state. After a year of work in electronics he entered Boston University where he received his B.S. and M.A., later receiving his sixth year certificate from Longbeach State University.

Mr. Alberini served in the army for two years before entering the teaching profession. He enjoys traveling and "plays a little golf" for relaxation.



John Alberini, Richard Rycroft, Guidance

Gloria McMahon, Secretary; Sylvia Bennett, House Master

Rosemarie Lefebvre, Secretary; Barry Gale, Guidance.

A. Owens Bierman, House Master.

HOUSE THREE

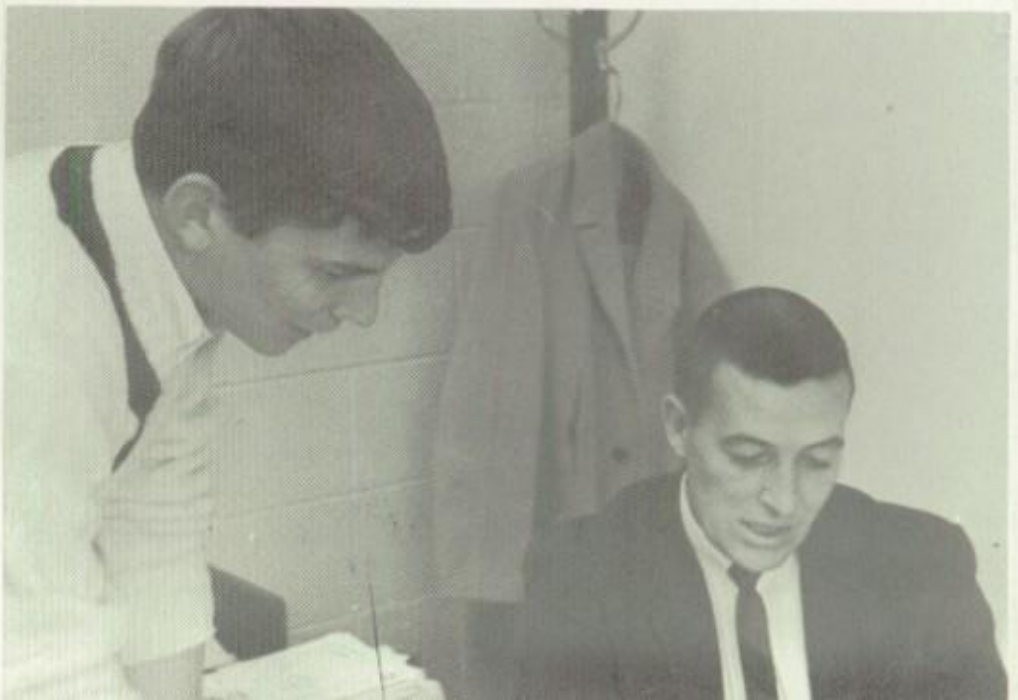
Mr. Bierman is a graduate of the University of Southern California and Columbia University. He was principal of a vocational high school for nine years, and he taught chemistry at U.S.C. Mr. Bierman has spent the last ten years at D.H.S. He particularly enjoys his new position as teacher and house master, and says, "Teaching my one class of chemistry keeps me in touch with the students and the classroom."

Mr. Gale is a graduate of the University of Miami and Bridgeport University, and he earned his professional degree from Fairfield University. Before coming to Danbury High School, Mr. Gale taught general science and did guidance work. His favorite saying is, "Character cannot be bought."

Mr. Walsh is not only a veteran guidance counselor at Danbury High School, but also a booster to the general spirit around school. He is a graduate of Boston College. In the summer, Mr. Walsh can usually be found at the Town Park, where he supervises water activities.

Edward Walsh, Guidance.



William J. Ryan, House Master.

Mr. Ryan received his B.A. from Manhattan College and his M.A. from Fairfield University. Before coming to Danbury thirteen years ago, he taught at La Salle Academy in Rhode Island, and spent two years in the Air Force in the Orient.

A natural athlete, Mr. Ryan spends most of his summers at the Town Park, where he is chairman of the Red Cross Water Program. In his spare time he enjoys singing Irish songs.

Mr. Marlow, a native New Yorker, received his M.S. at Long Island University, and is now attending Columbia for his doctorate in administration. His hobbies are photography and sports.

Very much in favor of the house system, Mr. Marlow thinks that it helps the administration plan the best possible curriculum for our students. As for the pupils in general Mr. Marlow says, "They are well-adjusted."

LIBRARY AND READING

Well-stocked with both the classics and modern criticism, the library is the focal point of the new high school. In addition to its 10,000 volumes, the library provides college catalogues for student reading, sixty magazines and five newspapers. The library plans eventually to increase its holding to 25,000 volumes.

The rippled-roofed modern library provides many advantages for student and faculty use. For privacy in studying, a student may sit at a carrel in a separate room. Library and conference rooms are available for class or group studies. The beauty and bright atmosphere of the library add to the enjoyment of reading.

The new school also offers a two room reading center. The main objective of this center's program is to develop mature reading skills. With the use of controlled reading facilities, the student has the opportunity to improve his comprehension, reading rate, and other study skills. Other equipment in use to develop student listening skills includes two tape recorders, workbooks and several tapes. The student who completes a course in the reading center is able to make more effective and enjoyable use of his reading time.

LANGUAGE

Language is the key to communication; it is the answer to the riddle of mankind. The Language Department of Danbury High School encourages all students to develop a foreign language to the highest degree of proficiency possible.

This department has set high goals. The student is taught to develop his ability to understand the language as spoken by natives, to read without direct translation to English, and to cultivate an understanding of the cultures of other nations.

Four years of study are offered in Spanish, French, and Latin. The students enjoy a variety of methods of presentation. In addition to the efficiently equipped laboratories, the students who have gone beyond their first year profit greatly from general surveys of the literature of their chosen languages.

The Language Department supports a child via the Foster Parents Plan. During this past year Maria Teresa Gangemi, a seventeen-year-old girl, received enough money for proper nourishment, clothing, and education. It is hoped that this aid from foreigners will give Maria a better understanding of our country as well as give the students of Danbury High School broader and more educated views.

SCIENCE

The field of science is infinite. Therefore the Science Department of Danbury High School must cover as thoroughly as possible this technical, though sometimes mysterious, subject. Within the science classes and laboratories students gain a better understanding of the nature of both organic and inorganic matter.

The department is highly specialized, offering courses in physics, chemistry, biology, earth science, general science, astronomy, meteorology, and electronics.

This year the department sponsored a trip to the Brookhaven Center of the Atomic Energy Commission. Through projects such as this, the program helps the student retain basic knowledge that helps him in his day-to-day living and develops his powers of reasoning.

In an age when the science of numbers is becoming increasingly important, the mathematics program offered at Danbury High School has become more advanced to meet growing demands. It has expanded to include the more modern concepts and offers such advanced college preparatory courses as Trigonometry, Analytic Geometry, and Calculus. The business students too, may prepare for a career in his chosen field by taking the courses offered in various types of business mathematics.

Four math laboratories are available to students for independent research. Here, work with model computers and surveying equipment provides a medium for the study of the complexities of mathematics not offered in the classroom.

The mathematics program is designed to develop the student's reasoning, so that he may retain much of the information for practical application.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Norman Winnerman

Elsa Bosch

You and I have something in common. We are both people who care. This means we take an interest in and have a genuine concern for the welfare of human beings. It means active opposition to all forms of political, social or economic injustice. It means faith in democracy and in the ability of mankind to solve its problems through a process of intelligent cooperation.

The aim of the Social Studies Department is to develop this faith, which will provide the compelling drive for effective citizenship.

Mary McKenney, Head of Department

To achieve these goals, it emphasizes to the students the responsibility which rests upon every citizen clearly to understand the ideals of democracy, the democratic way of life, and the dangers which confront it.

To make the students realize that current events are history in the making, the department attempts to develop a consciousness of happenings in the world around us, and, in some cases, the awareness of history being made right here.

Each pupil, through his studies of the past, acquires essential citizenship virtues — a sense of responsibility for the welfare of the community, state, and nation, and the will and capacity to cooperate in a constructive democratic manner.

BUSINESS

The Business Department offers courses to meet the needs of all students on the vocational skill level. Within the department there are four sequences: accounting, training for bookkeeping jobs; secretarial training; clerical training; and distributive education, training for retailing. From these four sequences come the many courses with which a large number of students are associated.

No additional sequences have been added this year, but an IBM Data Processing course is now offered on an half-year basis, with five students taking it each semester. To interested qualified students limited Data Processing is offered. Emphasis is placed upon card-punching techniques. Through the medium of the IBM electric typewriters, students are also allowed to become familiar with the card-punch machine, tabulator, and other machines available in the IBM room.

The Business Department is also offering a Business Machines Program which trains students to become familiar with comptometers, ten key listing machines, full bank listing machines, posting machines, rotary calculators, Dictaphones, duplicating devices, electric typewriters, and filing systems.

The Business Department of the new Danbury High School is fully equipped and capable of preparing young men and women for the world of commerce.

HEALTH AND SAFETY

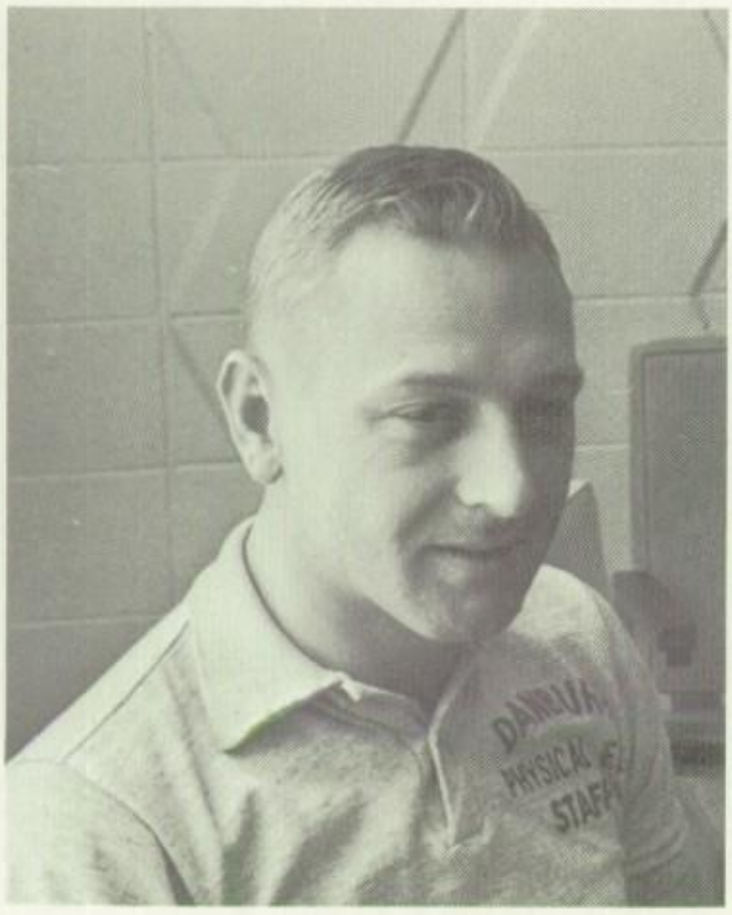
Evelyn Carey



Edward Yedzinak

Jump Ball! . . . Up, tap, Catch! . . . Dribble, throw, basket! Game! The enthusiasm captured in an authentic school game is reproduced in a casual meeting of two teams in a class in physical education, for it is in the early class activities that prospective team members learn skills as well as sportsmanship.

The philosophy of the Physical Education Department is based on three objectives: (1) securing the improved physical fitness of today's youth through active participation and exercise; (2) developing a love for sports and physical activity in general; and (3) building a sense of leadership, individuality, and responsibility.

The new Danbury High School gym will allow the boys' classes to expand greatly, with additions of wrestling, weight training, tennis, and track, along with the program of football, volleyball, softball, basketball, and various experiences in body-conditioning. The girls' classes will now include tennis and tap dance in addition to a program of field hockey, basketball, tumbling, soccer, folk dance, and physical fitness exercises. The new gym is one of the finest in the state, and the subject of much pride and envy throughout the area.

An extension of the Physical Education Department, the health program offers the student an opportunity to learn much practical information concerning healthful day-to-day living, with general instruction in immediate first aid. Safety is a major consideration of the driver education program also. In this field, as in physical education and health, safety rules at home, on the job, on the streets, and at play are presented in a way that is easily and usefully applied.

ARTS

The Industrial Arts Department is designed to help boys develop manual skills. Through work with woods, metals, electronics, graphic arts, and mechanical drawing, the boys acquire many creative procedures that often serve them on a professional level after graduation.

With the extensive facilities now available at our new school, the students produce such items as candelabra, desks, chairs, weight-lifting equipment, and lamps.

The Home Economics Department includes courses in all phases of homemaking, food, family relationships, personality, grooming, child care, home nursing, and fashion design. With a fully-equipped suite of four rooms, the program stresses growth of the individual, mentally and emotionally, besides preparation for a future in the business of home economics and a career as a homemaker.

MUSIC

Music is a universal language. People from every corner of the earth can appreciate rhythm, style, and melody. The Music Department of Danbury High serves as a dispenser of this unifying entity. The students are exposed to the basic foundations of music in classes concerned with music history and appreciation. For the serious music student classes in theory are available in the senior year.

Classroom sessions are only a part of the department's activities. The band and orchestra members receive personal instruction as well as instruction with the entire ensemble. For those who prefer singing there are several choir divisions for which they might qualify: Junior Choir, Senior Choir, A Cappella Choir, and the Madrigal Singers.

The seasonal and holiday concerts presented by the department are very enjoyable. In addition the backing of the band at the football games does much to keep spirits soaring.

ART

Marjorie A. Shepard, Head of Department

It is a known fact that today's society is becoming more and more culture-conscious. The art program offered at Danbury High School provides the students with an opportunity to learn the basic principles of a very large facet of universal culture. The students are encouraged to use their imagination and initiative to obtain truly fine results.

The art center's two classrooms and storeroom are well-stocked with the tools of creativity. In addition to work with paints, charcoal, and clay, the interested student may take advantage of a ceramics kiln, an enameling kiln, and a printing press.

In the Art Department the student has a reasonably free rein. No specific method is taught, thereby allowing the student's interest in expression to awaken and deepen.

On Hermits and Byron

"He makes a solitude and calls it peace."
As Byron wrote
He makes his loneliness
Not I nor anyone else

In the depths of his mind and heart
He makes it.
In his soul (If he thinks he has one)
It is there

The boxer in his tiny stool before 64,000 at
  The Stadium
Solitude is a  crowd
The mind aloof
Pensiveness is anywhere

In the midst of a forest miles from civilization
The reflective thought
The peace of mind
As Byron wrote

No peace, no silence
A worried man can never flee
He has a brain
A conscience
A fear

He can escape nothing
He makes his own noises
His own people
His own crowd

No peace is found
Not in isolated wood
Not in overflowing crowd

Man carries his solitude with him wherever he goes.

As president of the freshman class, Josh McClean feels that his fellow students are anxious to help him fulfill his hopes. A fine leader, he enjoys skiing, swimming, football, golf, and tennis. He also belongs to his church youth group and Squares.

Josh is looking forward to a career as a chemist and finds his science course the most interesting.

Bob Siegel, vice-president of the class, is an avid sportsman, participating in baseball, football, track and water-skiing. Undecided about his future, his favorite subjects are algebra and history.

Bob believes that his class will be able to accomplish much more than former freshman classes, because of its opportunity to mingle with the older students.

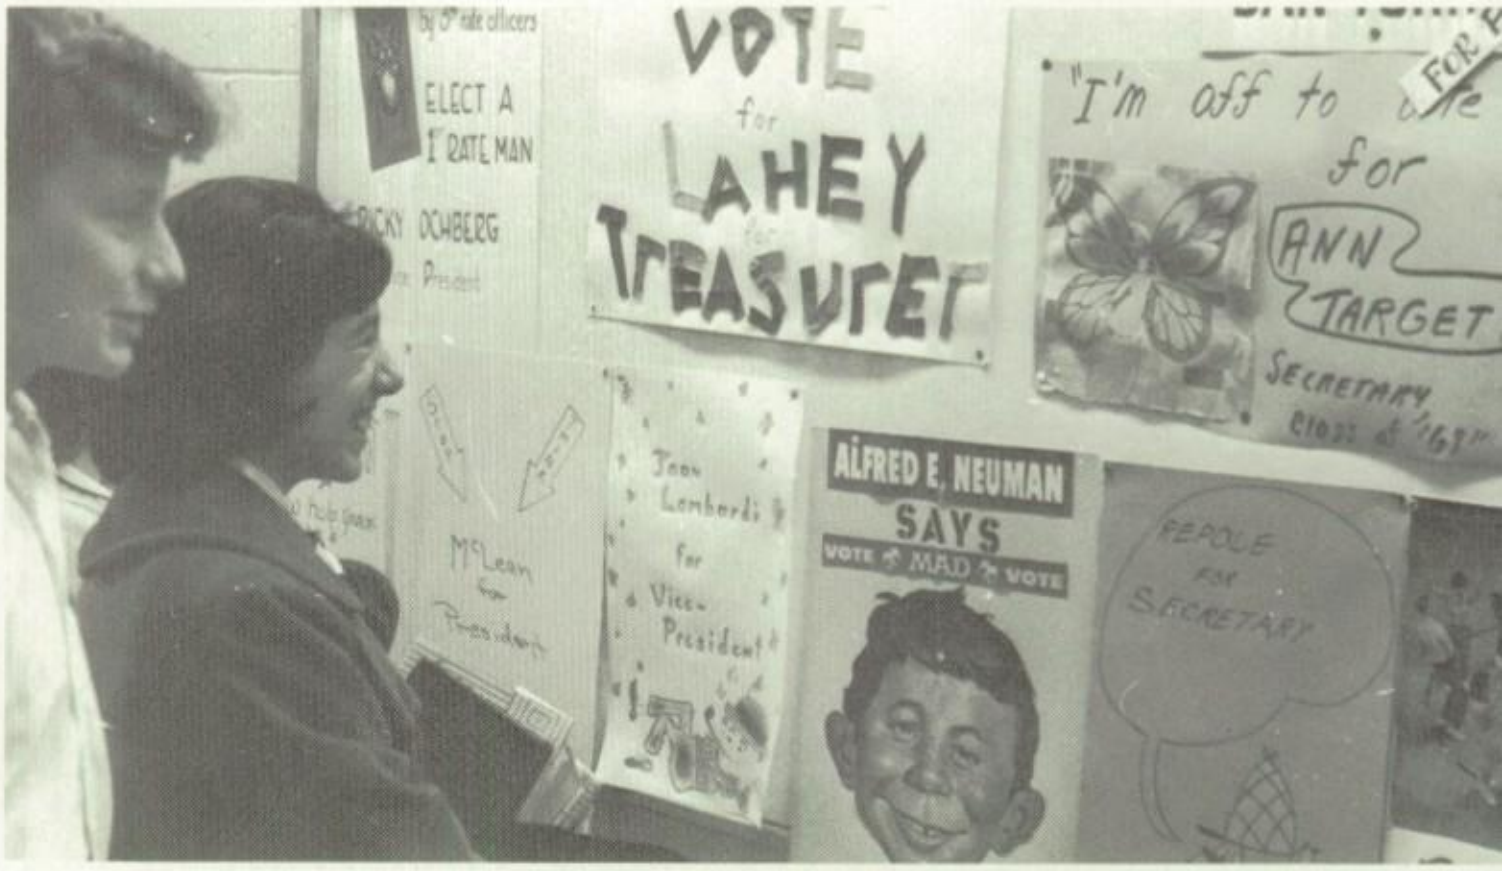
Diane Tomainio, secretary of her class, believes that the major duty of the freshmen is to build a good foundation for future years of class activity. She considers herself a link between the class as a whole and its adult advisors.

Diane enjoys reading, creative writing, and folk-singing. She hopes to become a special education teacher.

Treasurer Bob Bernstein, also known as Ferd, has numerous hobbies, among them playing his clarinet, skiing, and enjoying a good game of ice-hockey. A future chemist, he is an avid participant of his history class. Bob's conception of his duties as treasurer is very down-to-earth. "I need only collect the money and be sure to turn it in."

Anthony Baiad, Advisor

The freshman class is fortunate in having Mr. Baiad as its advisor. He has many fine plans and ambitions for the Class of '68 and hopes his students will leave a lasting impression on the school and community. With his aid and understanding, the freshman class is sure to have four active and productive years.



Every freshman class has some novelty of which to boast. The Class of '68 is not to be slighted for it will be the first class to graduate from the new high school after completion of four years' attendance. Much of the freshmen's activities centered around the election of officers. The results of the election were as follows: President, Josh McLean; Vice-president, Robert Siegel; Secretary, Diane Tomanio; and Treasurer, Robert Bernstein. Under the leadership of its advisor, Mr. Baiad, the freshman class made the same adjustment the other three classes made, and, for the first year in many, were no more confused than the upperclassmen. The fact that there were no knowledgable students able to give information concerning the floor plan of the new school was certainly a relief to the school's youngest students. Still, there is something bewildering about being surrounded by hundreds of people who seem to know everyone and everything. Time healed that, and in no time at all, the freshman class, the Class of 1968, was well on its way to a fulfilling high school career.

Joseph Durkin, Treasurer

Joseph Durkin is helping to make the Class of '67 financially outstanding. In addition to his school work, he is also kept busy by membership in the Biology Club, the Dramatic Club, and the Key Club.

Hoping to become a lawyer and possibly enter politics, Joe enjoys history and geography. His activities include swimming, water skiing and boating.

Noni Rifkin, secretary of the sophomore class, takes part in many and varied activities. Among these are French, Latin and Dramatic Clubs. Outside school, she is active in her youth group and enjoys playing the organ. This ambitious secretary hopes to make the Class of '67 truly successful.

Noni Rifkin, Secretary

Martin Baran, Vice-president

Martin Baran, the vice-president of the sophomore class, is taking his place with the other officers of his class in building the Class of '67 to an all-time high. When not concentrating on his class office or his school work, Marty enjoys reading and playing baseball and basketball.

Joseph Scalzo, President; Mrs. Shuster, Advisor

The sophomore advisor has been with the school only as long as students with whom she works. In class and on the advisory level, (Mrs. Shuster encourages her pupils) to express themselves freely. The sophomores owe her much gratitude for her tireless help.

Mrs. Shuster is aided by President Joe Scalzo, whose work has been outstanding within both the class and school. Active in the Music Department, Joe sings with the Madrigals, performed in My Fair Lady, and also contributes his talents to the Key Club.

SOPHOMORES

The sophomore class, under the leadership of Mrs. Shuster, its advisor, handled its first task of class elections wisely and enthusiastically. The election returns showed the following choice: President, Joseph Scalzo; Vice-president, Martin Baran; Secretary, Noni Rifkin; and Treasurer, Joseph Durkin.

The Class of '67 worked rapidly. The representatives of the class displayed their vocal talents when they gave a concert at the Glen Hill Convalescent Home. The class party and the Basketball Dance were sponsored, as is traditional, by the sophomore class.

The Class of '67 is well on its way to making a name for itself at Danbury High School.

JUNIORS

Gene Silverman, president of the junior class, began his job by organizing the Football Dance, a great success. Although Gene is new to Danbury High, he has already become active in the Dramatic and Executive Clubs. His interests include wrestling, fishing, debating, psychology, and especially politics. As for the future of the junior class, Gene commented, "It is my belief that this beautiful new school of ours has great potential for school spirit. I hope to make our class, which I believe has great potential for leadership and school spirit, an example for future classes to follow. This goal may only be achieved through combined effort and co-operation from the whole class." After high school, Gene hopes to enter college to study law and politics.

Warren Negri has been re-elected vice-president of the junior class. Enrolled in the college course, he finds it most interesting. An active member of the Key Club, he also participates in the Folk Singing Club. In the athletic field, Warren has played freshman, JV, and varsity football. Throughout this year he has worked toward building up school and class spirit. His main goal is to obtain unity within the Class of 1966.

Pam Rickard, again elected secretary of the Class of 1966, hopes to see the class as a respected body, not only in school, but also in Danbury. She would like more unity and class co-operation to achieve high goals. Enrolled in the scientific course, Pam is active in school activities. A member of the Chemistry Club, she is also the president of the Danbury Junior Ski Club, naming skiing as her favorite sport. Pam spends her summers working as a lifeguard and enjoying water sports.

Nancy Lee, treasurer of the junior class, is quite active in school life. While a freshman, she served as secretary of the Student Council, of which she has been a member for three years. Besides being treasurer of her class, Nancy still finds time to work on the circulation staff of the Aggregate. Nancy's interests include many sports, drawing, and doing creative work with her hands. When questioned about her goals for the junior class, Nancy replied, "I would like to see our class graduate knowing that we have succeeded in all our undertakings, and that we have gained the respect of future classes." As for Nancy's future plans, she intends to enter the field of nursing.

On becoming juniors, the Class of 1966 eagerly awaited the day on which the new standardized rings would become available. The military-type ring with an engraving of the new school proved to be popular with the majority. The first project of the year, selling pennants, was quite successful. Many juniors scrambled through the halls urging students to support the endeavor.

After a two-month delay, the juniors held the first class election in the new school. It proved to be very exciting with speeches, posters, and handbills involved. The results of the election were: President, Gene Silverman; Vice-president, Warren Negri; Secretary, Pam Rickard; Treasurer, Nancy Lee.

The first social event sponsored by the class was the Football Dance. This was the best attended dance in the history of Danbury High School. The junior class has a record of achievements that all should recognize.

A graduate of Springfield College, Mr. Walens has spent his years at Danbury High School as a member of the English Department. As the energetic advisor to the Class of 1966, Mr. Walens' ideas have stimulated the junior class to initiate numerous projects and social events. Together with officers and representatives, he has been an important part of the junior class in school life.

SENIORS

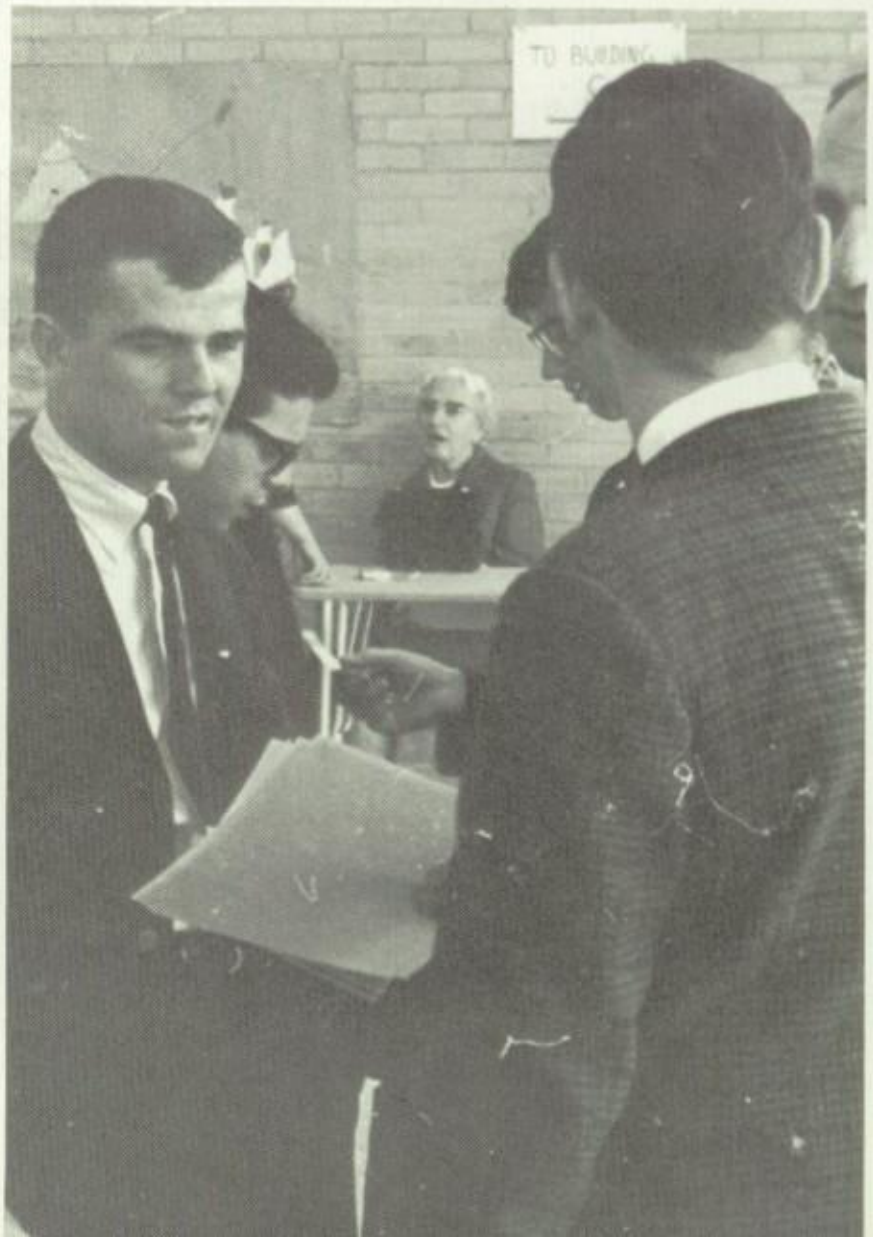
Barbara Rogol, Secretary; John Layok, Treasurer; Norma Kalil, Vice-president; Donald Dawson, President.



The Class of '65 — seniors at last! This class decided to make its final year at Danbury High the most successful and active of any. Its officers had been elected in the spring of 1964: Donald Dawson, President; Norma Kalil, Vice-president; Barbara Rogol, Secretary; and John Layok, Treasurer. Under their leadership the seniors began the year appropriately by sponsoring the first mixer to be held in the new cafeteria. In order to raise funds for the important graduation activities, the class also sold bookcovers and was the first to plan a class production.

Of course, no senior year would be complete without College Board Examinations and the other terrors of "planning for the future." But with the approach of June, talk of caps and gowns and class pictures grew more animated, while students awaited their Banquet, the Senior Ball, and finally, graduation.

However, none of these activities would have been possible without the support of class advisors. The seniors were fortunate in having an experienced and enthusiastic worker in Miss Minck. Her devotion and effort helped make the four years at Danbury High a rich experience.

Mr. McGran was equally influential. His quest for originality helped bring about such great successes as the Book Fair. In order to stimulate new ideas and projects, he provided the incentive for experimentation and conscientious work. Both Miss Minck and Mr. McGran will be remembered with fond appreciation.

THE AGGREGATE

Named by freshman Karen Sullivan, the Aggregate has introduced a new format in the 1965 Danbury High School yearbook. Its staffs have tried to cover all school activities, not just those of the seniors. They have strived for representation of a large portion of the student body, creative layouts, and high quality in all other aspects of the book.

MEGAPHONE

A megaphone projects a voice so that it can be heard by the maximum number of people. At our school, the Megaphone projects student opinion by means of words and pictures. Published eight times a year, its articles range from editorials to "Kid in the Hall," from interviews with teachers to "Did You Know?" A highlight of the year is the preparation of the Megaphone section of the Danbury News-Times, when the school writers, photographers, and business solicitors get a real taste of newspaper life.

SELECTIONS

The true test of a newspaper is its ability to reflect the views of its readers, even though controversial. Among those features in the Megaphone which are vehicles for student opinion is "Speak Out." The following article appeared under that headline in the December 23 issue.

Once upon a time, there was a senior class. It was a proud senior class; it was large and had a fine record. Besides, it was a happy senior class, because it had finally attained the rank of highest class in school.

But all at once a shadow was cast over this happy, busy, excellent senior class, a shadow containing buildings A,B,C,D,E; a shadow severed into Houses One, Two, Three, Four. The havoc that was to be wrought on our once well-adjusted senior class had begun slowly, subtly.

In our new plant, we were no longer together, no longer had the perhaps minor, yet still evident distinction of first floor home rooms. And so the senior floor became just another house — an all-class house . . .

Finally, one question: why are there no senior privileges? Can no reason be found for them? Not seniority, not maturity, not even mere tradition? Why can't seniors procure senior privileges?

When the pre-Thanksgiving Day game pep rally was limited to one-fourth of the school, why were interested seniors who requested, discussed, debated their class's right to attend overruled both by the administration and even other seniors? I maintain that the reason for this is the increased acceptance by the vast majority of DHS members that the senior class has no distinction at all, indeed, deserves none.

It cannot be denied that this year is commonly looked upon as a getting-started-as-soon-as-we-get-finished year. Next year is to be the real beginning, next year when adequate bus schedules, gym and auditorium facilities, cafeteria procedures and extracurricular activities have been broken in. But this is our senior year — the most important and exciting year of high school, a culmination of the other three. Don't we have a right to more than graduation?

Ellen Hochman

FROM STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

What emotions govern the words that flow from a writer's pen? A literature text can enumerate them; an English teacher can try to explain them. Only the work itself will evoke in the reader the feelings of the author.
The following poem appeared in the literary magazine this year.

Alone,
For in a crowd it always seems Alone, at first, in the
Pushing and pouring of people
Streaming into hallways,
Elbows joggling thoughts,
Feet tripping up ideas,
Many-footed, sprawling, meaningless glass-walled.

Wait. Watch.
The crowd ascends,
Each individual transcends
The others and itself.

Come,
This is my city, spread out, splayed out,
Rimmed hazy, tinged dizzy with blurred time.

Look,
This is my city.
A miniscule metropolis;
Red roofs, gray spires, gay parasols in the rain
Were never so varied as these,
Glowing in the pinpointed light,
These, searching for direction.

Listen, softly now.
This is my city,
Laughing, leaping, learning, growing,
Inevitably going Away.

STUDENT COUNCIL

This year was a year of change for the Danbury High School Student Council, for, in addition to the all-school council, four individual house groups were established. This new system insures a more efficient school government.

Among the all-school Council's most successful projects this year were the TWIRP (The Woman is Required To Pay), the Christmas toy drive for underprivileged children, and the sponsorship of buses to many football games. Another cause for pride is the Council's continued support of the American Field Service.

Once only a Student Council committee, the AFS Club is now a full-fledged school organization. The primary cause of its new status is the great success which the American Field Service has enjoyed at our school. The club is composed of a group from the Student Councils and other interested members of the student body. Michael Goodman is its president.

One of the worthwhile projects undertaken this year was the selling of bonds. This and other fund-raising projects have made it possible for us to send a Danbury student abroad, while receiving a foreign student in our school. This year, we have been privileged to study and form friendships with Jutta Lemcke of Munich, Germany, and to send Connie Bonacci to Bogota, Colombia. The success of their visits is due in no small part to the efforts of The American Field Service Club.

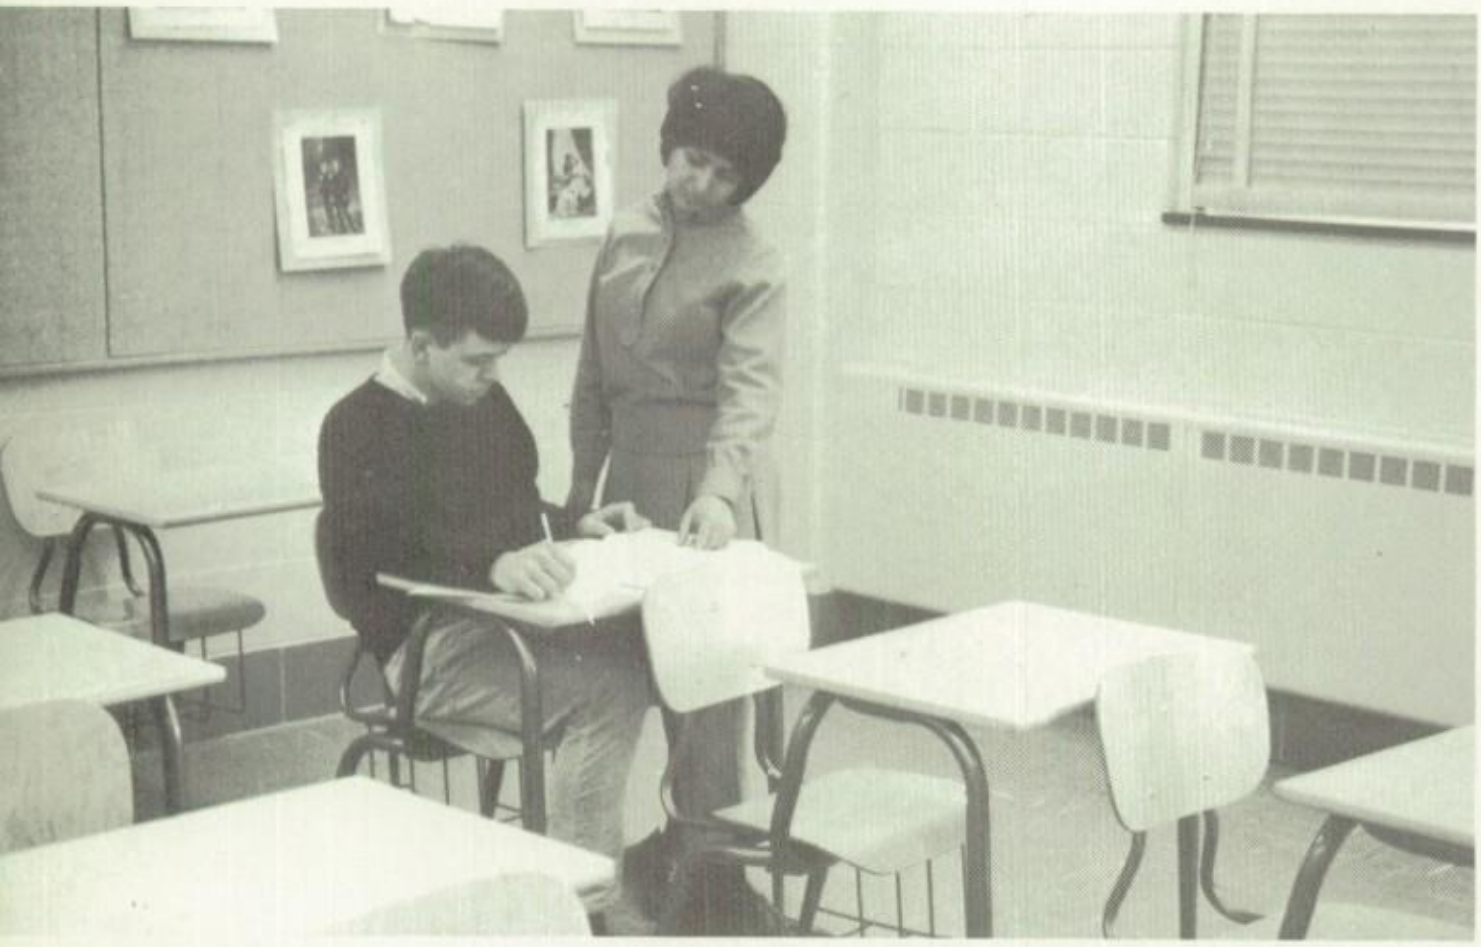
Jutta Lemcke

Last August, a girl arrived here from Munich, Germany and announced that she loved to go to the beach in the winter. Jutta has been in the swim ever since.

Fluent in English, completely poised, and, always a swinger, Jutta has been a wonderful ambassador for her country. Whether eating a pizza, rolling a bowling ball, or talking about her homeland, she has been a joy to know.

Connie Bonacci

From February through December, 1964, Connie Bonacci was "Our Man (?) in Bogota." For ten months, she lived with a Colombian family, attended a Colombian school, and, being Connie, won countless friends for herself and her country. Any regrets? Only a temporarily sprained ankle and a heart, slightly homesick for South America. But Connie is back now, happy and healthy. We're all proud of her fine representation of the United States and Danbury.



The four requisites for membership in the National Honor Society are character, scholarship, leadership, and service. With these in mind, the organization this year initiated a tutoring system at the new school. Each of the forty-nine members elected last spring offered to relinquish his study periods in order to give assistance to interested students. The response was enthusiastic; the Honor Society has made a fine contribution to academic standards at DHS.

However, all was not work. Under Mr. O'Grady's direction, the club engaged in fund-raising activities for a scholarship awarded at the end of the year and also sponsored an annual trip.

KEY CLUB

Probably the most active organization at DHS, the Key Club has contributed its services to school and community activities. Sponsored by the Danbury Kiwanis Club, it presented the school with a portrait of President Kennedy, collected funds for retarded children, and held its annual banquet in February. The Key Club is distinguished by its advisor, Mr. Winnerman, and by Don Dawson, who is state Lieutenant-Governor.

PRESIDENTS CLUB

The Presidents Club consists of students who hold positions of authority in various school activities. Among them are club presidents, team captains, and editors of publications. Each member offers one or more period a week during which he serves as a guide for visitors to the school. Mrs. Manion is the club's advisor.

FNA affords girls who have special interest in the field of medicine the opportunity to see at first-hand what life as a nurse offers. Through guest speakers, field trips to local hospitals, and various school and community projects, the students are exposed to many facets of modern nursing. During the Christmas season, members made gifts for the patients in area hospitals. At the end of the year, FNC presents a scholarship to an outstanding member who plans to continue her medical studies. Mrs. Kondrat has provided valuable assistance as the club's advisor.

With a new library and a new advisor, Mrs. Barchi, the Library Club underwent considerable change this year. Open to all students who work in the library, the club had an enrollment higher than at any other time in its history.

Its first major project was helping to get the new library underway smoothly, followed by the planning of a breakfast to which administrative personnel were invited. In May the club was host to all the library assistants of Connecticut schools, at which time Ellen Hochman, First Vice-president of Nutmeg 020, was the official hostess.

Always appreciated by the Library Club is the advice and assistance of its former advisor, Miss Treadwell.

ASTRONOMY CLUB

The Astronomy Club is one of the newest clubs at school. Using movies, field trips, and guest speakers to explore its subject, it plans a trip to Washington, D.C. Mr. Trocolla is the advisor.

Another new organization, the Photography Club, welcomes those creative with a camera and roll of film. Each member takes his own pictures and develops them in the club's darkroom; occasionally the results are displayed throughout the school. The club is fortunate in that its two advisors are Miss McDonald and Miss Sperber.

Kaleidoscope appeals to those students who have a particular interest in the history and techniques of art. Whether they wish to become more accomplished artists or to increase their own artistic appreciation, the members find the club stimulating. Guest speakers and field trips to well-known museums are frequent. Most satisfying of all, however, are the displays of the members' original works, which grace our lobbies and hall cases.

FOODS AND FASHIONS CLUB

The climax of the year for members of the Foods and Fashions Club is the spring fashion show, when the girls model clothes and serve home made cookies and punch. During their meetings, the emphasis is on domestic arts, fashion and color co-ordination, and the proper use of cosmetics. Because of the new facilities of the Home Economics Department, this year's club, under the direction of Mrs. Wodock, was especially active.

Boys with one year of practical experience are eligible to join the newly-organized Drafting Club. Its advisor, Mr. Kirby, says, "We hope to help the students discover things about architectural and mechanical drafting that they would be unable to learn in the classroom." Industrial draftsmen are often invited to speak at the meetings, and the boys are encouraged to do creative drafting.

DRAMATIC CLUBS

And then there were five . . . last year the Dramatic Club was just one large, ambitious group, which undertook just one large ambitious production. Now, however, the sizable club has been divided into four smaller house clubs, which together comprise the all-school group, for which Mr. Stewart is the advisor.

A highlight of the year was "A Night at the Theater," when each house presented a one-act play. The major spring production of The Mouse that Roared, a clever political satire, was expecially enjoyed, for the talent and enthusiasm of its players did justice to the Broadway facilities of our new auditorium.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

Among the highlights of this year's Christmas concert was the premier appearance of the Men's Glee Club. Under the direction of Mr. Humphreville, this small but enthusiastic group performs with the other choirs in the various musical productions at Danbury High.

FOLK SINGING

The Folk-Singing Club is the most relaxed, enthusiastic, and fun-loving group at DHS. It began this year as a small club composed of Baez-Dylan fans, led by Wayne Gowdy, and quickly grew into a large and popular organization. Since its purpose is purely enjoyment, there are no concerts or definite programs planned. Several members, however, participated in "The Sound of Seniors."

The Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Mr. Humphreville, is a group of select voices chosen from the A Cappella Choir. Members participate in four concerts each year and tour the Danbury area at Christmas and during the spring. Students from all classes are eligible. The "Mads'" rendition of "The Little Drummer Boy" is always the highlight of the Christmas concert.

Each year students from all high schools in Connecticut audition for and participate in the All-Connecticut Chorus, Band, and Orchestra. Seven pupils from DHS were accorded that honor this year. With the other members from the state, they enjoyed a weekend of fun and song at Storrs and presented a fine concert there.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR

The members of the A Cappella Choir are chosen from the four house choirs and perform under Mr. Humphreville's direction. These select singers can be heard several times during the year. They played a major part in the Christmas concert, the spring "pops" concert, and the production of My Fair Lady. As a reward for its efforts, members of the choir enjoy the privilege of attending the Metropolitan Opera in the spring.

ORCHESTRA

While the Band is composed mainly of brass instruments, the Orchestra includes woodwinds and strings as well. The group is small, composed of only ten members, and does not participate in any of the annual concerts. Instead, it concentrates on perfecting individual performance in the classical and popular vein. Mr. Childs is the advisor.

BAND

One organization that plays a major role in our school functions is the Danbury High School Band. Its director is Mr. Joseph Childs, who also supervises music for the Danbury School System. DHS Band members contribute 50 extra hours of their time each year by performing at all home football games, at four seasonal concerts, in the Memorial Day parade, and in the annual production of the Music Department.

Although their work is often taken for granted, the members of the Band cannot be surpassed for their energy, dedication, and talent. They not only have school spirit — they make it.

CREATIVE BIOLOGY CLUB

The word "creative" aptly describes this new club. Engaging in few field trips or lectures, the members prefer to spend their meetings building models of plants and animals and constructing detailed charts. Many of their creations are so attractive and informative that the advisor, Mrs. Kaufman, uses them in teaching her own classes.

FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE BIOLOGY CLUB

The Freshman-Sophomore Biology Club enables ambitious underclassmen to get a head start in their studies by doing creative projects and experiments. Guest speakers from industry and medicine are often heard, and a field trip is taken each year. Mr. Barchi and Mr. Morse serve as advisors.

EL PASATIEMPO

El Pasatiempo is a Spanish language society, comprised of members who maintain an A or B average. Mary Zarour, the president this year, says, "The purpose of the club is to develop an understanding of the culture and a fluent use of the language of the Spanish people."

One of the club's most popular projects is the selling of hand-made corsages at Christmas. There is also a Spanish fiesta in March, complete with authentic food, costumes, and music. As a gift to the new school, this year's members donated books for a Spanish section in the library. In June, the club traditionally awards a scholarship to one of its outstanding members.

ROMANI HODIERNI

Romani Hodierni, "Romans of Today," is one of the oldest language clubs at DHS. Its activities began in 1954, and have grown steadily in popularity with the Latin students. The main purpose of the club is to encourage in young people an interest in and appreciation of the language, literature, and art of ancient Rome.

With the help of their advisor Mrs. Curtin, the members hold a Roman Saturnalia, sell carnations for St. Patrick's Day, and have a party at the end of the year. Every second year, the traditional banquet is held.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

True knowledge and appreciation of a language extend beyond the classroom. Clubs such as Le Cercle Francais afford members an opportunity to enjoy speaking the language of a country and to learn about its people and customs.

Several members have travelled in France, and their pictures and anecdotes greatly enrich the meetings. At Christmas the traditional carols are sung "en francais." The highlight of the year is the May banquet, when everything – food, music, conversation – is in the French style. Mr. O'Neill and Mrs. Strasburger are the advisors.

TENJINS

The mathematics club at DHS is called Tenjins, a Japanese word meaning "mathematician." Students from all classes are eligible to join. Members of Tenjins utilize the instruments of the four math labs with which they perform mathematical experiments. They and their advisor, Mr. Orioli, especially enjoy working with the Braniac computers.

Coach Ed Yedzinak's 1964 Varsity Football team encountered a season of fulfilling work, yet of frustrating defeats. Under the leadership of co-captains Ralph DeSantis and Gene Davio, the team constantly tried its best, even when it found itself behind. This year's Danbury players fought every obstacle – injuries, lack of experience, and anguish, but they always showed the admirable "never say die" attitude of Danbury athletes.

On September 19 the team opened its season against one of the finest Bridgeport Central teams to invade Danbury in many years. Although Danbury had a tough defense, Central scored three quick touchdowns, which, with its early first and late fourth quarter touchdowns, sounded defeat for the Hatters. Despite the 155 yards gained by Steve Sprindis, the Orange and Blue lost 40 to 8.

The next visitors to Danbury were the Stamford Knights, who, led by All-State's fullback Don Devito, eluded Danbury's attempt to win, and took home a victory of 28 to 6.

Danbury next played Andrew Warde of Fairfield and this contest resulted in the Hatters' triumph. The Orange and Blue wave made a quick first quarter touchdown, but played the rest of the game with its back to the wall. Close to the end of the first half, Warde launched a 54 yard scoring drive, but failed to tie the score. Finally, after stopping two Fairfield threats in the second half, the Hatters emerged with a much deserved 14-6 victory.

On a cold, wind-blown Saturday afternoon, Danbury met its fourth opponent of the season, Norwalk Central Catholic High. Danbury took advantage of Central's mistakes and penalties to score in the second quarter, developing a six point lead. Before the end of the quarter, however, Norwalk scored and completed a pass for the two point conversion making the score 8 to 6. The two teams then battled evenly for the rest of the game, leaving the Hatters a scant two points behind.

In its final night game of the season, Danbury played host to the powerful West Haven team. This team dominated the first half, scoring twice on sustained drives and a third time on a sparkling 55 yard run. At half time, Danbury was a discouraging 24 points behind. When it started to drizzle, the Hatters surged forth on a 67 yard scoring drive. As the rain intensified at the beginning of the fourth quarter, Danbury's offense did too, and Steve Sprindis ran 57 yards for a touchdown. In the final minutes of play Danbury took full advantage of West Haven's inability to play in foul weather by recovering a fumble on the opposition's 19 yard line. On the next play Jeff Annunziata scored Danbury's third touchdown and on the try for extra points, Sprindis burst across the line. Nevertheless, the game ended 4 to 24.

The following Saturday Danbury was the guest of Stamford's Rippowam High School. The host squad proved to be too powerful for the Danbury club, and although the Hatters fought a hard battle, Rippowam was able to eke out a 26 to 0 victory.

On their seventh outing the Danburians met the victory-minded Staples team from Westport. The Orange and Blue defense seemed well prepared for the explosive Wreckers as the Hatters denied Staples a first down in the first eight minutes of play. At the end of a hard fought game, however, Staples had amassed 44 points while Danbury failed to score.

Danbury's final home game of the season was played against Greenwich High. The Hatters spotted them a 16 to 0 half-time lead, and this handicap was too much to overcome. Despite the execution of some beautiful passes by quarterback Jim Brady, and the 102 yards gained by the running of halfback Jeff Annunziata, the final score was Greenwich 36, Danbury 6.

The Danbury-Darien game also resulted in a defeat for the Hatters. By the end of the first half, Darien had rolled up a 36 to 0 lead. In the second half a poor Danbury punt set up Darien's sixth score; their final touchdown came after the recovery of a Danbury fumble. This gloomy afternoon ended in a 50 to 0 defeat by a strong, well-balanced Darien squad.

The Hatters' annual Thanksgiving Day game with Norwalk High was a hard fought campaign for both squads. Norwalk scored late in the first quarter, taking advantage of a short Danbury punt. The Green and White threatened again in the second period but a strong goal line stance held Norwalk for four plays. Danbury then launched its first serious drive of the day. The team marched from its five yard line to Norwalk's 22 with a series of running plays and two well executed screen passes. Norwalk's second touchdown was scored early in the third period. Norwalk recovered a Danbury fumble and in five plays, scored, resulting in a final score of 14-0.

The season has been one of reward and fulfillment. Although it has been disappointing from a won-lost point of view, the lessons learned will result in greater Danbury teams in the future.

The Cross Country team of Danbury High School completed the 1964 season with a record of twelve victories and one loss in dual and triangular meet competition. They were first in the Western Sectional Championships, second in the County Championship and thirteenth in the Large School State Championship held in New Britain.

Danbury started the season on September 22 by outrunning Fairfield Prep by a score of 15-50. In their first time under fire, Coach O'Grady's harriers showed solid strength, when Leo Atherton led a solid line of seven orange clad runners to the tape.

The thinclads took the next four meets of the season in rapid succession, beating Brian McMahon by a perfect score of 15 to 50, Staples 20 to 41, Norwalk High 20 to 45, and Stamford 23 to 35.

The first triangular meet of Danbury's season saw the O'Gradymen and Darien pitted against the defending County Champions, the Millionaires of Greenwich. Darien was completely left out of this sizzling meet as the titans, Danbury and Greenwich, scrapped over the 2.5 mile Rogers Park Course. With its usual fast start, Greenwich swept into the lead, and at the halfway point held five of the first eight places, and seemingly, the key to the meet. In the middle of the Millionaires group was a trio of O'Gradymen, Leo Atherton, Fran Valluzzo, and John Taggart. As the field rounded the far turn into the final straightaway, there were 600 yards left to determine the outcome of the meet. Then, Taggart and Valluzzo moved up behind Atherton who was now running behind Greenwich's first man; Lee Dumas, who had been in the middle of the park, sprinted past three of the Millionaire runners to make a tight Danbury quartet; Craig Neidhart and Gary Butler moved up to take Greenwich's fourth man, and Tom Fisher nipped their fifth man at the tape. The victory was Danbury's with 22 points; Greenwich was second with 36 points, and Darien was third with 85 points.

As fate would have it, the next meet threw together the only three undefeated teams in the county. Danbury, New Canaan, and Rippowam met on the rugged New Canaan course for a triangular meet, which left New Canaan the only team in the county with an unblemished record. The Rams had 19 points to Danbury's 32, but the O'Gradymen beat the Warriors of Rippowam 24 to 33. Co-captain Fran Valluzzo turned in one of the greatest efforts of his high school career when he finished first for Danbury and second overall. Fran was the only visitor to challenge New Canaan's top five men.

In the final three conference meets of the season the D.H.S. thinclads beat Stamford Catholic 15 to 50, Trumbull and Ludlowe 15 to 50 and 20 to 43 respectively in a triangular meet, and Andrew Warde 15 to 50. In beating Warde Danbury's Leo Atherton set a new Andrew Warde course record, and co-captain Fran Valluzzo, Gary Butler, John Taggart, Lee Dumas, and Craig Neidhart all surpassed the old record.

One of the highlights of this season was Danbury's participation in a cross country clinic at Chester High School, Chester, Vermont. At the request of Mr. Samuel H. Gang, principal, Coach O'Grady took the varsity squad to Vermont where they engaged in a dual meet with the Chester team. Danbury won; however, Chester shows a great deal of potential and we are sure to hear of them in the future.

On November 2, the Western Sectional Championship and the Fairfield County Championship were held at Rogers Park in Danbury. When tne race was over, Danbury had won the Western Sectional title and taken second in the county race.

The Junior Varsity, overshadowed but a formidable team in its own right and feeder for Varsities of the future, finished its season with a record of ten wins and two losses, second place in the County Championship, and first place in the Sectional meet. The strength of future teams seems assured.

The Varsity's final meet was the Large School State Championship where, after a great season, the Hat City harriers finished a heartbreaking thirteenth. Although disappointed by the season's ending, the team looks forward to another pace setting group with next year's Varsity.

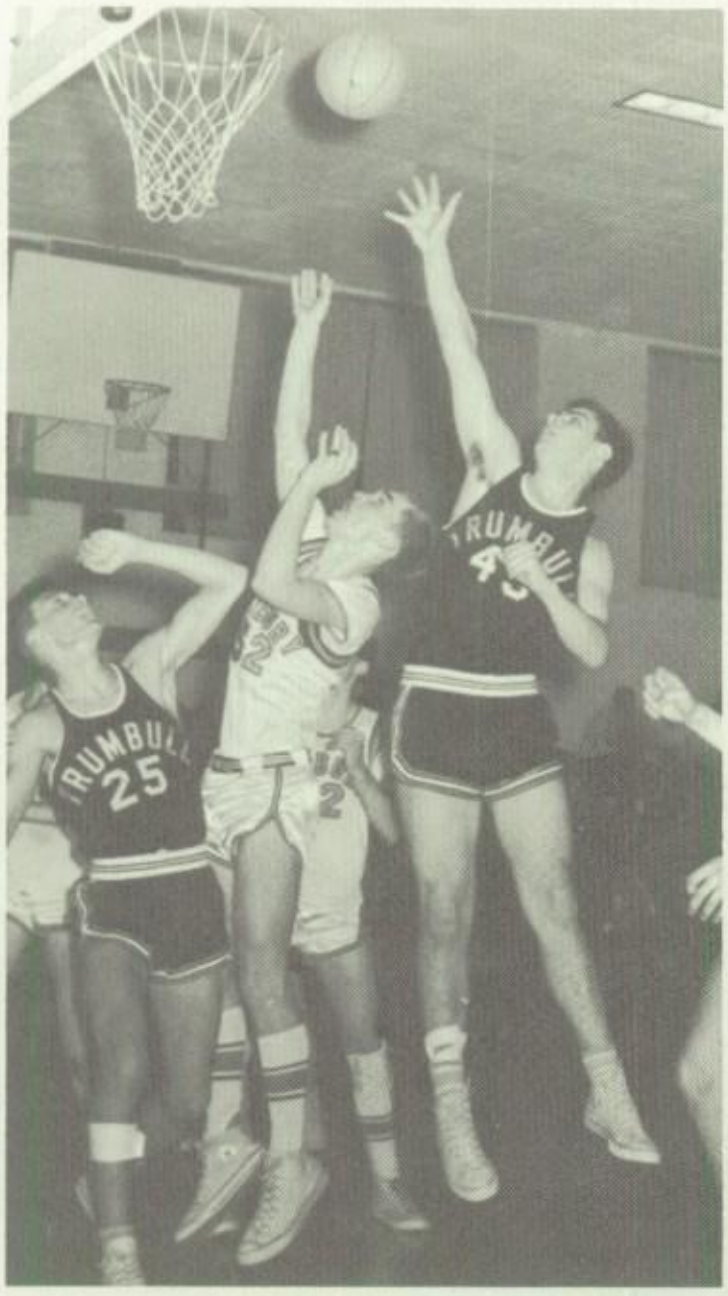
Danbury High opened its basketball season with a new coach and an inexperienced team. Although the season had many heartbreakingly close games, the team was made up of fierce competitors.

In the first game, Danbury made a fine showing against Brian McMahon, losing by the narrow margin of 67 to 63. McMahon is one of the strongest teams in the conference.

Darien then invaded Danbury and the Hatters matched them stride for stride for better than three quarters, then faltered in the final five minutes to lose 69 to 54.

The next three games saw Danbury on the losing side of the scoreboard as they were defeated by Andrew Warde 80 to 62, Central Catholic High 72 to 60, and Trumbull 83 to 62.

The Hat City quintet next faced a strong Stamford five. The Orange and Blue threw an effective press against the visiting Black Knights, and within a minute managed to gain eight consecutive points. The rally was not enough, however,as Stamford held Danbury down to win 64 to 58.



The next game was a disappointing setback as Danbury tried vainly to break into the win column. Stamford Catholic downed the battling Danburians 89 to 62.

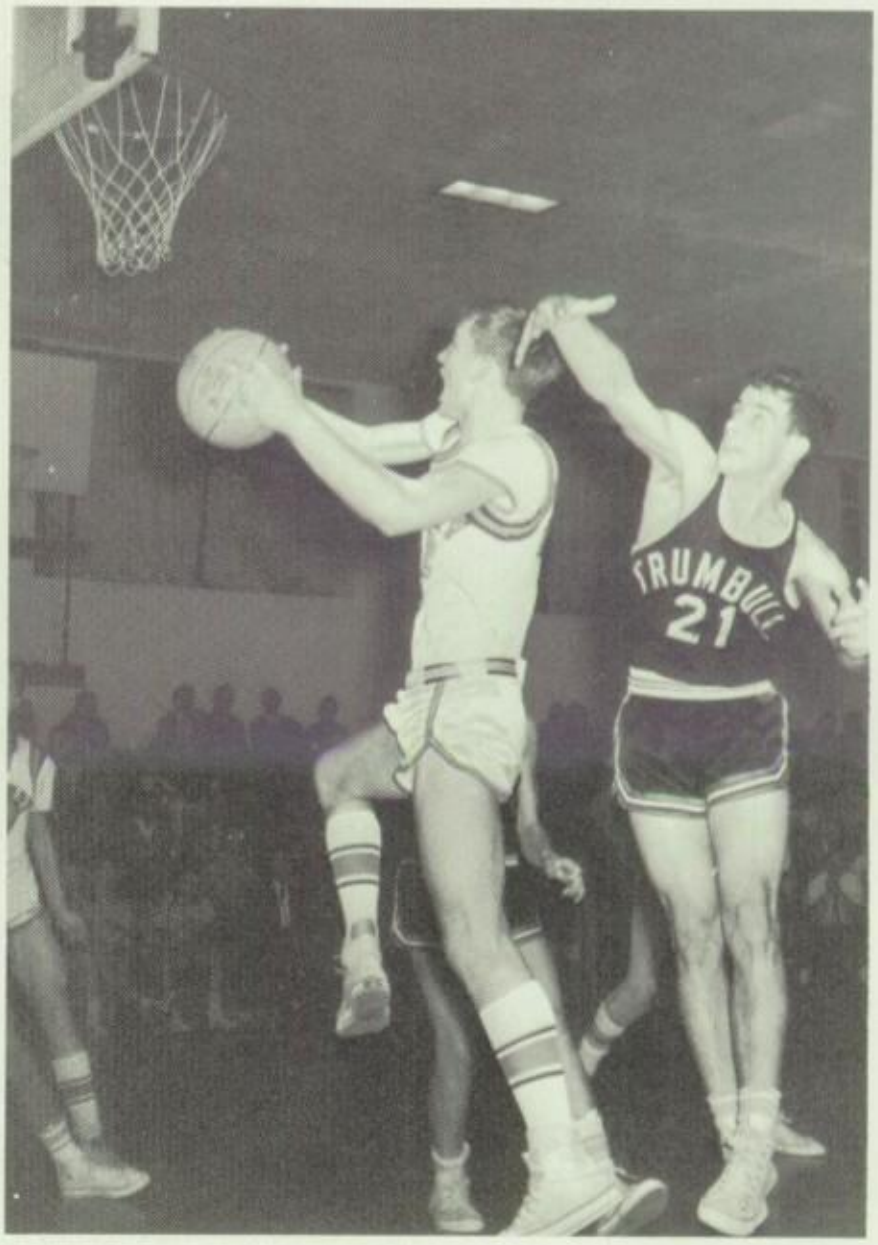
When Ludlowe of Fairfield invaded Danbury, the results caused pandemonium to break out in the War Memorial as Danbury won the game 82 to 73.

The Hatters next traveled to Greenwich, hoping to score another upset, but instead the Orange and Blue was defeated 72 to 60.

In the final three minutes of play against Staples, Danbury was down eleven points. The Orange and Blue struck back to come within three points of the visitor's lead, only to have Staples win 65 to 60.

Danbury's Varsity cagers gave all they had against Norwalk in a herculean effort to upset the undefeated coast team. In the final quarter, however, Norwalk gained twelve consecutive points to win a 94 to 74 victory.

The succeeding games saw the Danbury High cagers defeated by Rippowam 61 to 45, New Canaan 77 to 68, and Darien 80 to 62.



Danbury's loss to Stamford was the bleakest day of the year for the scrapping ball club. The Hatters' defeat was the worst of the season as Stamford overran the Danbury five 69 to 28.

A fired up Danbury squad took on the visiting Millionaires of Greenwich as Coach John Hajus's quintet performed like champions instead of a team plagued with defeat. The final score was Greenwich 60 to Danbury's 55, but the outcome remained in doubt until the final minute.

Danbury's final two games of the season ended in defeat as Staples defeated Danbury 79 to 64 and Rippowam won by a score of 67 to 52 to tie for the County division lead. Although the team ended the season somewhat behind in the win column, its members gained valuable experience which bodes well for the Hatters in 1966.

"What is a cheerleader? . . . A cheerleader is the guardian of the school spirit. A cheerleader is energy, happiness, courtesy, vitality, sincerity, and enthusiasm wrapped up in a smile and entitled a lady. Always she has a willingness to be an active part of her school functions."

This year the Cheerleading Squad was very active. Cheering through football and basketball seasons, the girls led and delighted the crowds with many new and original cheers. In November the squad traveled to the University of Connecticut where it scored high in the National Cheerleading Competitions. The cheerleaders closed the season by matching cheers with a faculty squad at the Seniors-Teachers Basketball Game.

Despite a disappointing record this season, the girls' basketball team showed promise of improvement and gave reason for optimism for next year. Hampered by the lack of gym facilities, the girls were not able to hold practice under the best possible conditions. However, in both the Immaculate and Brewster games, they made a good showing and proved their playing ability. Most of the juniors who played on the Varsity team will be back next year to form the nucleus of a new team. The future looks bright since many of the Junior Varsity players appeared to be good material to help make up a winning team for 1966.

THE # GRADUATES

An adventurous little breeze was riding on the crest of an ocean wave, when, before he realized it, the wave had spent itself and he was tumbled on the hard white sand. The breeze decided to doze a bit before wading out to ride in on the surf again.

Presently, a companion breeze came riding in. Finding his friend sleeping peacefully, he banged him lightly with his surfing board, driving away all slumber. The little breeze sat bolt upright and, seeing his friend, laughed.

"Whew, you saved my life. I was just ready to take the train for Washout U."

"You sure you're all there?" asked his friend wonderingly. "Are you quite awake?"

"Yes, but I had the queerest dream. Have you ever heard of People?"

"No."

"Well, I dreamt that I was a People. Mind you, not just any kind of people, but a people who belonged to Danbury High School, Class of '65. You see, I was looking about me right before I dozed off and I noticed how the waves change the grains of sand around. Can you see how they bring some with them, and carry some away? I dreamt that the ocean was Time, and each grain of sand a person. Whenever a wave washed upon shore, the People were somehow changed, although only a few noticed their transformation. Do you see this little rugged grain of sand? His name is Mr. Merullo. The first day we entered high school as freshmen, about six hundred of us were assembled in the auditorium when Mr. Merullo announced, 'The first test of your intelligence is to see whether you can find your home rooms.' I was scared stiff, but the other six hundred were too.

"See that mass of gray grains there? Well, they were an obnoxious group called 'upperclassmen,' whose status seemed to lie in their knowledge of room numbers and locations. They went to school in the morning and we attended in the afternoon. In between times, we tried to keep out of each others' way.

"Being an extremely intelligent group, we formed a freshman Student Council. Our advisor was Mr. Keane and our designated leaders Anne Murnane, President; Mary Zarour, Vice-president; and Connie Bonacci, Secretary. Now that we had an official representative body, we needed some means of communication with the rest of the school. Through the freshman Megaphone, under the capable editorship of Cathy Murtha, we let the enemy know that we were still there and going strong.

"Because the afore-mentioned group thought that we should be trained in social graces before attaining Sophomorehood, the senior Student Council let us play grownup by having a class party of our own. 'First Fling' was generously attended, and its participants took home souvenirs of multi-colored balloons.

"We achieved fame by contributing to the semi-annual variety show, 'Entertainment, USA.' Moreen Jugler, Patty Ryan and Susan Lougheed performed the Irish reel so successfully that theirs was the only act to receive shouts for an encore. As if that weren't enough to make us blossom with pride, we also had an undefeated freshman football team.

"The first year sped by remarkably fast. We had a taste of midterms, the TWIRP, spring fever, and before we knew it, we had stepped up to the rank of sophomores."

Here, the little breeze who had been listening rather skeptically asked, "Why did your class change if you were so happy being freshmen?"

"Well, a big wave washed upon shore and changed the pattern again. It was inevitable that we start anew. Elected officers for the new year were Don Dawson, President; Norma Kalil, Vice-president; Diane Cougle, Secretary; and Ron Tarsi, Treasurer. At that time the administration chose two young-hearted teachers, Miss Minck and Mr. McGran, to serve as our advisors. We were on our way.

"The enthusiasm of the advisors and officers resulted in a wonderful turnout at the 'Candy Caper,' planned by co-chairmen Robin Wendelken and Billy Marcy. A corner candy shop and multi-colored lollipops were among the enticing decorations. Miss Minck highlighted the evening with her rendition of the limbo.

"The success of this party carried us in high spirits throughout the year. In cross country, Craig Neidhart and Dick Henderson won the first and second J.V. races, enabling them to become Varsity men. Even after thus losing two of their best runners, the J.V. had a victorious season under Captain Paul Hall. In track, Paul Siegel won a medal at the pre-season state championship, where Craig and Joe Coniglio also scored valuable points.

"Although the lowliest of upperclassmen, we infiltrated a variety of clubs and activities. Anne Murnane was chosen to be the sophomore delegate to the Connecticut Federation of Student Councils. Many sophomores also displayed their talents in the Music Department's presentation of Guys and Dolls. In the Dramatic Club's production of The Skin of Our Teeth Susan Thames had a lead and other classmates worked backstage on everything from publicity to make-up.

"Another social event that year was the Basketball Dance, with Diane Cougle and Billy Marcy as co-chairmen. After spending long hours on the third floor, drawing, painting, and cutting, we carefully carried down to the gym a twelve-foot likeness of a basketball player.

"The sophomores then experienced their first financial success. The book fair was held on the stage of the DHS auditorium and planned under the chairmanship of Norma Kalil. About fifteen hundred books were sold, while we developed a formidable class and school spirit. By this time we were sporting the seal of importance, that of our class rings."

The little breeze paused for a moment to catch his breath.

"Go on with the story before the tide changes, or we'll be through surfing for the day," the companion breeze urged and settled himself comfortably on the surfboard to escape the itchy sands.

His friend continued, "Have you ever seen a grain of sand become a piece of sun fallen on the ground? And by making the slightest move, did you lose that radiance forever? Then you will know how swiftly our junior year seemed to speed by; one moment it was all aglow, the next, finished. We assumed a new dignity under our class officers, who were the same as the sophomore leaders except for our new secretary, Bobbie Rogol.

"In school activities juniors stirred up quite a little sandstorm. Rodney Mailloux became Vice-president of Student Council and Cathy Murtha Editor of the Megaphone, while our sportsmen also gained fame. Ron Tarsi and Ralph DeSantis did a fine job tackling in football and the former J.V. team became the Varsity Cross Country with Craig Neidhart, Fran Valluzzo, and Paul Hall. In track, Hal Nadeau, Paul Siegel and Craig Connors all performed admirably.

"Next we tackled the Football Dance, a traditional responsibility of the Junior Class, by electing Jim Flynn and Connie Bonacci to captain this team effort. In November the Music Department's Music Man led many of our members into enjoyable roles both in the committees and on stage. Betty Minish, Anne Murnane, Sandy Davis, Connie Bonacci, Joyce Antunes, and Hugh Tully were among the junior musical prodigies. In April, Debbie Werner, Priscilla Weathers, Sue Thames, Dianna Macchiaverna, Hugh Tully, and Ricky Repole participated in the production of Seven Nuns in Las Vegas.

"Cindy Keenan and Craig Neidhart were elected co-chairmen of 'Mardi Gras,' our class party that year. Although thoroughly enjoyed by those who came, the small attendance was lamented by our advisors and officers.

"Because we were running low on funds, the book-fair was again held. Under co-chairmen Kathy Franklin and Ken Ramey, we sold eighteen hundred books, proving that Danbury teenagers are not illiterate morons.

"Around February seventh, the sands shifted a little to allow Connie Bonacci to leave for Bogota, Colombia as our AFS student. We were proud of her, knowing that we would be well represented by this perky little ambassador.

"For the next month and a half, every junior was dizzy with expectation as Billy Marcy and Linda Levy guided us toward our Junior Prom. We broke tradition by holding this festive affair in the War Memorial rather than in our school gym. See how radiantly these grains of sand glitter as the sun rests on them? This is how 'Camelot' shone for 'one brief moment' on May ninth.

"When elections rolled around once more, one didn't need a calendar to know that our junior year had almost slipped away. By the end of the campaign, the handbills and slogans initiated by Jim Flynn and Jimmy Dyer had brought out exuberance. The balloting was close and on the second vote, Don Dawson emerged victorious as the president of the Senior Class.

"Before the year was ended, Ellen Rifkin and Linda Levy were chosen to be co-editors of our yearbook. We knew that next year's work would be doubly hard as a new DHS would require a new yearbook format.

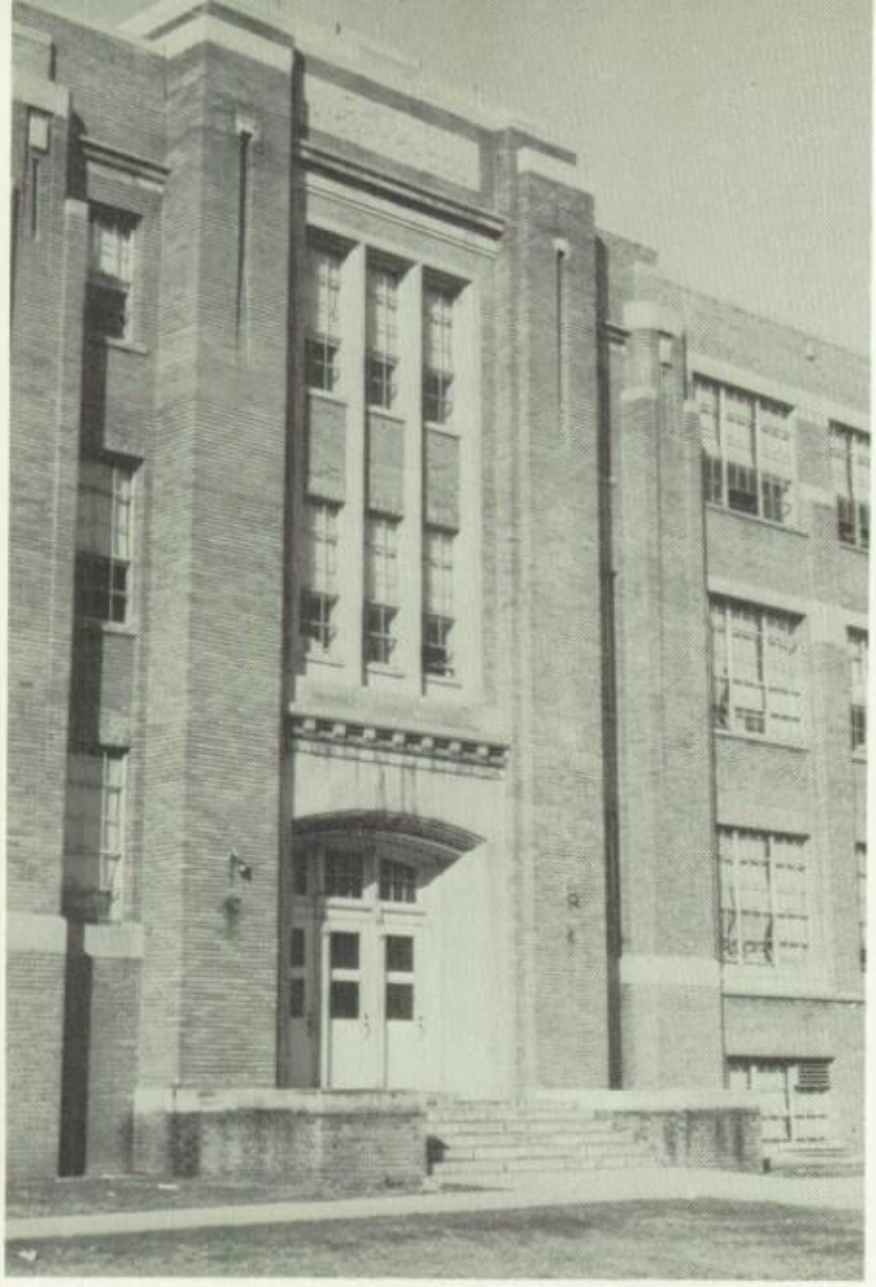
"During the summer, Norma Kalil and Craig Neidhart attended Girls' and Boys' State respectively, and Anne Murnane and Robin Wendelken attended the Student Council Convention at the University of Connecticut. But vacation time was fleeing, and soon the highest wave of all rolled onto the shore, giving our class a new and fantastic shape. Although we were still the same grains of sand that had been together for three years, our environment changed as we entered a long-hoped for, eagerly-awaited new high school.

"See this grain of sand, how it seems to sparkle with a light all of its own? I dreamt that this grain was a very special People, our exchange student from Bavaria, Jutta Lemcke. She brought distinction to our class, as did Don Dawson, Anne Murnane, and Ellen Hochman, who held regional posts in the Key Club, Student Council, and Nutmeg 020, respectively.

"To celebrate our success and to test the party atmosphere of our new school, the Senior Class sponsored the Mixer, which was declared a swinging success by more than five hundred students.

"Early in the year we congratulated our always busy, very enthusiastic vice-president, Norma Kalil, for winning the DAR award. Our Cross Country team was also a source of pride for coming in first in the Western Connecticut Sectional Championship and second in the counties.

"Senioritis blazed up noticeably after the first semester (although some teachers vowed that it had existed all along), for we had taken all the dreaded tests, chosen our caps and gowns, and received our class pictures. Although heard plotting class projects, seniors did not plan the bomb scares that put the whole school on alternate bomb schedule.



"They did however plan a variety show, 'The Sound of Seniors,' which made the auditorium resound with laughter and music on the evening of April 3. With the coming of spring, the most common question heard was, 'Have you been accepted yet?' or 'So what are you doing afterwards?' Then, awaiting the Senior Ball, the Senior Banquet, and graduation exercises, we noticed apprehensively that it would be impossible to escape the huge waves tumbling rapidly toward the shore. Turning to the water, either eagerly or resignedly, we waited for them to carry us to our separate destinies.

"And that's where you woke me up."

"So you never knew what became of them all?"

The little breeze sighed, "No, but I imagine they were all swept up and carried far away, perhaps never to meet again."

The listening breeze remained silent a while, as if expecting to hear the talk and laughter of the 65'ers, but these sounds were gone forever. As if by a mutual understanding, the little breezes took up their surfboards and, with a joyous shout, blew into the ocean. For a time their laughter echoed on the shore, but as the waves continued to rush in, all trace of the happy creatures disappeared. The sands stretched into infinity undisturbed, and the sun shone eternally.

JOHN E. RADACHOWSKY

Such strength as a man has he should use. Acero

John has the look of sincerity about him. He has a quiet charm and a shy smile inviting you to confide in him. John enjoys swimming in the summer and skiing in the winter, and to fill the seasonal gaps, he plays billiards. At present he is considering enlisting in the Navy.

PATRICIA ANN RAFFERTY

A lady of high degree. Ransom

Pat's laugh is as special as her personality. There are very few people who have her certain knack to cheer others up. Her wit and humor contribute the right thing at the right time. These qualities have made her loved by all and will continue to do so throughout her life.

KENNETH ALLAN RAMEY

Never an idle moment, but caring and thoughtful of others. Longfellow

Ken is one of the hardest working members of our class. His enthusiasm and trustworthiness have contributed to the Megaphone, El Pasatiempo, the Latin Club, and Student Council. As co-chairman of the book fair, his capability and efficiency again came to light. All this, supplemented by good manners, makes Kenny a truly fine person.

MITCHELL THOMAS RAMEY

How soon a smile . . . can change the world. Author Unknown

Mitch, as he is known to his friends, is a prominent member of our class. His willing smile and easygoing personality are appreciated by many. While busy with Student Council and Megaphone work, Mitch still finds time for dancing and making hot fudge sundaes. Mitch plans to study commercial art in college.

JOHN H. RATHJEN

Without friends no one would choose to live, even if he had all other goods. Author Unknown

John is the name at the head of the list for a successful party. He possesses both an outstanding sense of humor and an amicable personality. If John isn't swimming or bowling, he is probably taking his car apart. Upon graduation from high school, he will go on to college to make new friends.

PHYLLIS JEAN RECINE

Happiness is a habit — cultivate it. Hubbard

Phyllis is a dark-haired, lighthearted girl with a contagious laugh. Her happy disposition had made her countless friends. While active in our Dramatic Club, F.T.A., and the Megaphone, she also finds time to participate in JA and the Danbury Ski Club. Her future plans include college and a career in teaching.

LAWRENCE JAMES RENNA

The most essential thing for happiness is the gift of friendship. Oder

Larry's quiet mien is very deceptive, for he has a warm and friendly nature made doubly interesting by his great sense of humor. Larry is an avid sports enthusiast, enjoying bowling and swimming. Visions of his future come alive with the thought of college and the dream to become an engineer.

SANDRA BERNICE RENNER

Both short and sweet are best. Middleton

Shy and serene are valid descriptions of Sandy's quiet personality. While the F.N.C. and the Dramatic Club keep her busy during school hours, Sandy still finds time for sewing, swimming and volunteer work at the Danbury Hospital. Here she is getting valuable experience for her chosen career of nursing.

ROBERT BRIAN REIDY

For he that once is good is ever great. Johnson

Is there a gentleman in the house? Why certainly, if Bob is present. This active senior has contributed his diligence and congeniality to many Honor Society, Key Club, and French Club functions. A fine clarinetist and valuable member of the golf team, Bob hopes to become an engineer.

KALMAN EMERY REISTETTER

Ambition is our idol. Southerne

RICHARD GLENN REPOLE

They serve God well who serve his creatures. Norton

Rick is always friendly and has a good word for everyone. He is interested in world affairs and enjoys camping and marksmanship. Above everything, Rick is a true gentleman. He is looking forward to a military career and to working in the foreign service. There couldn't be a better representative of America than Rick.

ROBERT STEPHEN RODGERS

Lord of himself. Byron

Bob is a hard worker and always ready for a good time. He enjoys science and is especially interested in chemistry. An individualist, he likes strange color combinations which distinguish his wardrobe. Bob's hobbies are football, basketball, and most other sports. We wish him success in college.

LINDA R. RODRIGUES

To all upon my way, day after day, let me be joy. Let my life sing. Davis

Easy to get along with, fun to be around, patient, kind — insure Linda's happiness. She can't help but be well liked by all who know her. Horseback riding, swimming, and playing drums are three of her special loves. After graduation, Linda plans to become a nurse.

MARLENE ANN RODRIGUES

Action is eloquence. Shakespeare

Marlene is one of those few people who has true empathy when a friend has a problem. Besides being thoughtful and considerate, Marlene is fun to be with. A member of the F.T.A., she is also a dedicated class representative. We wish Marlene success in all she does.

ANNE ELIZABETH ROGERS

Nothing endures but personal qualities. Whitman

In her spare time Ann likes to think about her future as a fashion designer. Her fondness and talent for drawing probably affected that decision. Anne likes sports and especially enjoys swimming and tennis. An all-round senior, she has made the most of her high school years.

JOHN JOSEPH ROGERS

Once a gentleman, and always a gentleman. Dickens

A member of the Key Club and treasurer of his house Student Council, John enjoys an active life. His smile and friendliness have extended his charm to all who know him. This manly senior hopes to attend a business school and is deserving of the best of luck.

BARBARA SUE ROGOL

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm. Emerson

Half of the spirit of the Class of '65 comes from its dimple-cheeked secretary, Bobbie. This peppy cheerleader is will editor of the Aggregate and loves to write poetry and short stories. A tennis and swimming enthusiast, Bobbie plans to become a social worker. Her ambition and exuberance will long be remembered at DHS.

JOAN MARIE ROMPRE

Happiness is the only sanction of life. Santayana

Greeting people with a smile and always ready to enjoy a good laugh are accurate characteristics of Joan. She enjoys writing stories, but her special love is for children. Joan's almost mysterious ability to bring a smile or laugh to a child's face seems to insure her success in her plans to be a pediatric nurse.

LINDA LEE ROSEN

A tender heart, a will unflexible. Longfellow

Lin is New York's loss and Danbury's gain. In the winter, she can be found ice skating and in the summer, on the tennis courts. In school she enjoys taking part in the Dramatic Club and assisting with the Aggregate. She is also a busy JA worker. Lin plans to attend a merchandise school.

ALETA MARILYN ROSSI

This above all: to thine own self be true. Shakespeare

In her years at DHS, quiet and soft-spoken Aleta has been an active member of the National Honor Society, the Megaphone, and the Library Club. Aleta is also an avid fan of the Shakespearean Theatre. Her deep thoughts and arousing statements on literature have added to many an English class.

Of more than common friendliness. Bridges

Carol's enthusiastic spirit has made her a pleasant and charming addition to our class. A member of the Senior Choir, Foods and Fashions Club, and Dramatic Club, she has traveled in Sweden and plans to become an airline stewardess. A ready smile and friendly disposition will continue to win friends for Carol after graduation.

PATRICIA MARIE WERDANN

Behold, I do not give lectures or a little charity when I give myself.

After high school, Pat hopes to attend college and study nursing. Her ambition is to travel to the Far East and work with homeless children. A member of F.N.C., the Biology Club, and the Dramatic Club. Pat enjoys reading. Her bright outlook on life should aid her in her future work.

ELIZABETH CHARLENE WHITEHEAD

Valour . . . Wisdom . . . Friendship. Emerson

"Sonny" knows how to make and keep friendships. When her friends have a problem, she is always right there to help. In her spare time, Sonny likes to bowl or watch races. Because she is so nice to know and be with, we are sure Sonny will have a happy life.

RONALD CHARLES WHITLOCK

Your wit makes others witty. Catherine II

Ronnie is known for his interest in cars, especially Chevies. Undecided about his future plans, he is sure to do well with his wit and love for joking. We wish him luck in all he does.

DEBORAH JOAN WERNER

Purpose is what gives life a meaning. Parkhurst

By playing several parts in Dramatic Club productions and working for the Nutmegger and National Honor Society, Debbie has proved to be ambitious and talented. She is a "cheerful chatterer," and a true friend. Debbie plans to be a writer and we expect that someday she will be one of our great American novelists!

CAROLE CHRISTINE WHELCHEL

A smile is ever the most bright and beautiful. Lansor

Fun and flirtatious, Carole is a very active member of the Class of '65. F.T.A., Dramatic Club, and the Aggregate are only a few organizations which have benefited by her efforts. Carole enjoys water skiing and bowling and plans to teach in the elementary grades.

CLAIRE J. WHITE

The smile that is worth the praise of earth. Wilcox

A smile, a wave, and a cheery "Hi" bring Claire into view. She came to DHS from Cathedral High School in Portland, Maine. When she isn't working, Claire especially enjoys sewing. Her plan for the future is to become a legal secretary.

JILL ANN WHITE

Here's to the friends we can trust. Dunlop

Jill is the finest friend anyone could have. Her sincerity, good humor, and writing ability combine to make her an all around person. In her future Jill wants to be a secretary, and we wish her success in all that she does.

WALLACE GEORGE WHITLOCK

Cheerfulness is the principal ingredient in the composition of health. Murray

Wally is a tall, good-looking fellow and a non-worrier who loves to have fun. He is an active member of Junior Achievement and enjoys weight-lifting and sports in general. His future plans include college where he will meet the success due to him.

DIANE ESTER WILLIAMS

Enthusiasm is that secret and harmonious spirit. Isradi

This perky Brookfield miss is most interested in horse. During her spare time, she can be found riding. Capable and reliable, her future as a secretary is certain to be a bright one. Best of luck and happiness in all you do, Diane.

JUDITH CARPENTER WILLIAMS

She walks in beauty like the night. Lord Byron

Though we will remember Judy for her shy and quiet manner, we will also recall her warm smile and sparkling eyes. Her activities include the Dramatic Club, F.T.A. and the Nutmegger, besides snow skiing and swimming in her spare time. Judy's kind ways are sure to win the hearts of all.

DONALD THEODORE WILSON

The thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts. Longfellow

Shy and quiet, Don goes about his tasks without any commotion. His long list of activities includes A Cappella Choir the Folk Singing Club, painting, listening to music, and reading about cars. In the future Don plans to be a technician in auto mechanics.

ROBERT JOHN WIMMER

The great mind knows the power of gentleness. Browning

Bob's happy-go-lucky personality makes him a very likeable guy. Full of fun and interested in athletics, he has participated in football, baseball, and basketball. Bob has been a class representative for three years. He is a true gentleman, and success is inevitable for him.

WELDON RICHARD WOODRUFF

The game is no more than the players of the game. Newbolt

A member of the varsity basketball team, Woody has won the admiration and respect of all as he has bounced the team to victory. One thing particularly different about Woody are his socks! Few will forget their bright colors.

ROBERT ARDEN WOHLKEN

Art is the conveyance of spirit by means of matter. Madariaga

Friendly and dependable, Bob enjoys painting and drawing and hopes to pursue his hobby as a commercial artist. Always smiling, he will be most remembered for his nonconformity. We are sure Bob will find happiness in all he does.

TIMOTHY JAMES WROBEL

A kinder gentleman treads not the earth. Shakespeare

Sports and cars are the time-consuming hobbies of this senior. Tim has participated for three years on the football team and for one on baseball. His consideration for others and high spirits have enraptured many. Though his future is as yet unplanned, Tim's ambition will serve him well in whatever he does.

JOAN TERRY YASLER

Tranquility comprehends every wish I have. Walpole

Joan is shy and quiet, optimistic and easy-going. She has been active in El Pasatiempo, the Megaphone, and the Latin and French Clubs. An active member of the Order of Rainbow, she excels in all her subjects and especially enjoys English. Joan's hobbies are practicing voodoo and performing her amusing, often moving, monologues.

RICHARD WALLACE ZANK

The stronger always succeeds. Plautus

Richard, one of the more manly members of our class, enjoys pool, weight-lifting, and basketball. He came to DHS from Norwalk and with the characteristics he has displayed to us, he is sure to succeed.

MARGARET ANN ZANZAL

Patience is the best remedy. Plautus

Peggy can be characterized by her dependability and outgoing personality. At DHS she been a member of F.T.A. and El Pasatiempo. Peggy hopes to become a teacher or to join the Peace Corps. No matter which career she pursues, she will be a credit to her profession.

MARY ELIZABETH ZAROUR

The heart benevolent and kind that most resembles God. Burns

The gentle kindnesses of life that are difficult for most flow continually from Mary. Her smile starts in her eyes, beaming assurance of a happy future. Mary is president of El Pasatiempo, an associate editor of the Aggregate, and a member of the Honor Society. She plans to teach English.

GARY CHARLES ZUGER

Merry both night and day. Author Unknown

Gary is happy-go-lucky, always laughing, and full of good humor. This tall blond-haired senior enjoys hunting and working with cars, especially his own '57 Dodge. After high school, Gary hopes to attend equipment operators' school. He will be remembered by us for his cheerfulness and ready smile.

DIANA CHERYL PASQUARIELLO

Talk happiness. The world is sad enough. Wilcox

Dee is a warm-hearted person who enjoys bowling, collecting records, and working for DECA. Possessing a readiness to learn, she plan to further her education. We know that Dee's talents will add much to her future in the business world.

FRANK BOERGERMAN

Only be thou strong and very courageous. Old Testament

Frank, a very energetic boy, is constantly working on body building. He enjoys weight-lifting and boxing, in his spare time. Also he has a love for motorcycles. Frank plans a future in the service and we wish him the best of luck.

WILLIAM ROBERT BRETT

Nor wanted sweet discourse, the banquet of the mind. Dryden

Although quiet, Bill is a very friendly person to know. His entire life revolves around cars. Bill's persuasiveness and ability to hold a conversation will be of benefit to him as he goes on into the insurance world. Good luck, Bill!

EUGENE W. COMERFORD

A man of mark. Longfellow

Sports and cars are the greatest interests of this quiet individualist. Gene spends much of his spare time working on engines. As for the future, he plans to enter the service, and later, to work. Luck and happiness are certain to come Gene's way.

DOUGLAS MICHAEL DE GRAZIA

Man's life lies within the present. Aurelius

Doug is a fast-moving senior; as a dancer he can't be beat. Throughout his busy schedule, Doug remains a gentleman. He hasn't decided on "what-next" after high school, but we know that his incessant energy will push Doug onward and upward.

DENNIS DEVIGNEY

The pleasure of life is according to he that lives it. Emerson

Denny's hobby is racing. He has his own stock car, to which he devotes most of his time, and his attitude of good sportsmanship is one of his admirable traits. In Denny's immediate future is marriage. Good luck to you!

LYDIABELL DIXON

A friend is known in necessity. Ashby

This friendly gal is always ready to help. She enjoys studying and, aided by her talent for drawing, she hopes to pursue a career in commercial art. Lydiabell is taking the business course and is always surrounded by her friends. She is quiet and serene but hides a bubble of laughter.

GARY CHARLES DYER

Gentleman is written legibly on his brow. Coleman

Although Gary has only been with us for one year he has gained many friends because of his warm personality. He enjoys all types of sports, especially basketball. Gary, like many other American boys, spends 90 per cent of his time working on cars.

RICHARD FALLS

Hands were made for honest labor. Watts

Ricky is a member of the Civil Air Patrol. He also enjoys hunting and woodworking. The winner of the Perry Award for Industrial Arts, four times consecutively, he plans a future in furniture making. Ricky's steadfastness and "keep-trying" attitude will insure his success.

LOIS FERRIS

Where hearts are true, few words will do. Cheles

Lois is a little girl with a lot of energy, enjoying horseback riding and dancing. She is known for zany antics and a heart of gold. In our fast growing city there is a demand for good secretaries. Lois will fill this need after attending IBM school.

SHARON GARDNER

She can be imitated by none. Author Unknown

Sherri is a happy, energetic girl who enjoys the outdoors. Showing dogs and horseback riding are among her favorite hobbies. Her warm nature has proved her to be a true friend. Whether Sherri chooses art or work with IBM, we wish her luck and success.

NORMAN GOWDY
The glory of good men is in their conscience. Kempis

Wayne's time is absorbed in folksinging and music, and at the present he directs a professional group. He obtained honors as an El Pasatiempo member, and devotes time also to JA. Wayne plans to perhaps pursue a military career.

CANDACE HART
How sweetly sounds the voice of a good woman. Middleton

An ardent lover of music, Candy has been a member of the Junior and Senior Choirs. Her outdoor activities include skating, swimming and horseback riding. She loves to travel and would like to go West someday. Shy and sweet, Candy is known as a responsible and intelligent girl with a very mature outlook on life.

DONALD LEON HORCH
His magic was not far to seek. Lowell

Highly respected by his classmates, Don is a sincere person whom anyone would be proud to call a friend. He enjoys winter sports particularly ice skating, and was on the football team during his junior year. A member of the Aggregate staff, Don plans to attend a junior college after graduation.

DOUGLAS JENSON
Animals are such agreeable friends. Eliot

Doug, a welcome newcomer to our class, hails from Arizona. A keen sense of humor and lively personality have won him many friends at DHS. Doug plans to become a veterinarian and practice in a small Western town.

LORRAINE ELLEN JONES
There is no joy but calm. Tennyson

Lorraine, better known as Lori, enjoys such hobbies as sewing and listening to records. She is an exceptionally talented dancer, yet does not see dancing as a career. Lori is also a calm, sensible miss who has a warm heart and an open mind. Her friendliness toward other people is her outstanding quality.

WESLEY HOWARD JOHNSON
I love to hear thine earnest voice. Tennyson

Arriving at DHS this year, Wesley has adjusted easily to the new school. This avid sports fan especially enjoys bowling and singing. Though quiet, he has displayed courtesy and friendliness at all times and is sure to do well in the future as an English teacher.

KEITH DOUGLAS KIMMEY
I love enthusiasts. Roux

Keith is enthusiastic and has boundless energy. He enjoys playing the guitar in his spare time and is especially interested in astronomy. Keith is also an avid sports fan who enjoys boxing, baseball and football. We know his great spirit will carry him to success.

FRED J. KALTENSTEIN
True fame will never be in Chance's gift. Solon

Fred is one of the quieter and shyer members of our class. His main interest lies in military strategy since he enjoys collecting fire-arms and studying wars. Fred is also an avid reader. His future path leads him to the armed forces and to a successful life.

ELIZABETH KUHN
Our dignity is not what we do, but in what we understand Santayana

Liz's sweet accent is flavored by an air of dignity. Among other things she enjoys basketball, reading, and dancing. Very likely to succeed, this petite young miss hopes to enter the field of biology. Liz occupies her spare time as a member of the Library Club, F.N.C., and the Nutmegger.

HEIDI MARSH
Silence is sweeter than speech. Clark

One of the quieter members of the senior class, Heidi is a good friend and always a lady. She is considering modeling or teaching as a career. For relaxation, this senior enjoys baking, sewing and swimming.

RICHARD WILLIAM MOLINARO
His mind remains unshaken. Virgil

Rich's many activities include skiing, surfing, and serving as treasurer of the Car Club. He intends to attend college and then pursue a career as an automotive designer. Rich's fun-loving spirit combines well with his serious qualities to make him a well-rounded, fun-to-be with person.

ARTHUR JOSEPH NAJAMY
That which befits us is cheerfulness and courage. Emerson

"Gunga" is a friend to everyone. Cheerful and enthusiastic, he brightens every day. An avid party goer, Gunga cannot be topped on the dance floor. He is also a member of the Danbury Car Club. Gunga may be Danbury High's first culinary genius. We wish him all the luck in the future as a cook.

THOMAS D. MARRON
A man devoted to pleasure. Terence

Tommy is of the lively set and always seeking action. Having participated in intramural basketball during high school, he is an avid sports fan and enjoys bowling also. Tommy plans to further his education after graduation.

ROBERT MICHAEL McNAMARA
Each man is justified in his individuality. Emerson

Robert attended DHS after studying at Henry Abbott Technical School. This conscientious and ambitious member of our class enjoys golf, bowling, and pool. Bob's immediate plans are to continue his education in the hopes of becoming a chemical engineer.

PAUL TURY NAGY, JR.
A fair fire makes a room gay. Ray

Paul is one boy who is never happy unless he's working on cars. Always on the go, he also enjoys water skiing, swimming and skating. Possessing a spirit ruled entirely by exuberance and enthusiasm, Paul is sure to hit the top of life.

LEE ALAN NICHOLS
Man is his own star. Beaumont and Fletcher

Lee came to Danbury High from Bethel last year. Outside of school his hobbies are dancing and working on cars, most often his own. As for the future, he plans a career in the Navy.

JOSEPH PESENTE

Pleasure meet to chase the glowing hours with flying feet. Byron

Joe is a boy who fascinates his friends with his lively wit and immense reserve of jokes. In his spare time he enjoys bowling, playing pool, and baseball. With this lively personality Joe will certainly do well in his future endeavors.

DENNIS EDWARD PLUE

Come, let us have some mirth! Daly

Denny is red-headed, humorous, and popular. He has won fame this year as the co-captain of the basketball team. Denny enjoys sports of all kinds and participates in them whenever he can. College is in his future and we wish him the best of everything.

EDNA POPKINS

Beauty of style and harmony and grace and good rhythm depend on simplicity.

Edna's friends recognize her as a girl with a special quiet charm. She came to brighten the halls of DHS from Thomas Jefferson High of Brooklyn. Edna likes to read and loves to swim. Her future plans include an office job or filling a governmental position.

GEORGE ALAN RASMUSSEN

A laugh is just like sunshine. Saunders

Alan is a great guy to know and a lot of fun to be with. His enthusiasm helps him enjoy all sports and any activity in which he participates. Alan plans a future in the armed services and we wish him the best of luck.

KATHERINE VIRGINIA ROBERTS

Style is the vehicle of the spirit. Smith

Kathy is one of the most attractive dressers in our class. Behind her collegiate appearance is a sharp witted sense of humor. She has participated in the Dramatic Club, and on the Girls' Basketball team. The future will find Kathy as an English teacher. Happiness and success to you, Kathy!

DAVID A. RUSSELL

Every man must fashion his gift according to his calling. Beaumont & Fletcher

A member of the Electronics, Tenjins, and Drafting Clubs, Dave is interested in electronics and automobiles. He is bound to be present wherever people are having a good time — in summer at the lake, and in winter at Rogers Park. After high school, he plans to go into electronics.

MARY MATHILDA SCHELLINCK

A lifetime of happiness. Shaw

Candy's gaiety will appeal to all the future music students of this pianist and guitarist. One might say that having her friendship is like "music to one's ear." Although music consumes most of her time, Candy has also participated in field hockey for three consecutive years.

ARLENE LORRAINE WHITLOCK

There is a garden in her face where roses and white lilies bloom. Author Unknown

Arlene's dependability and consideration for others have won her many friends in the Class of '65. She enjoys skating and swimming, and is especially interested in art, photography and books. Arlene, may your versatility continue to inspire the respect of those in your future.

JAMES CLEMENT YONKERS

To be staunch and valiant . . . free and strong. Mansfield

Though Jimmy is modest and reserved, he is easy to talk to and fun to be with. Hunting and fishing are among his favorite hobbies. In his spare time he enjoys woodworking. Jimmy hopes to study chemical engineering in college.

The staff of the yearbook thanks the following for their assistance in the publication of the Aggregate:

Frank E. Karelsen, for the photographs which appear on division pages;

Lyons & Mather, Architects, for the architectural renderings which appear on division pages;

Eugene Brown of the Danbury News-Times, for the architectural rendering which appears on the advertising division page;

Madeline McDermott of the Texas City Sun, for the article which appears on page 167;

The American Broadcasting Company, for the quotation which appears on pages 148 and 149;

Charles Guarino, Supervisor of Buildings, for assistance to the advertising staff;

Richard Carlucci, Data Processing Programmer, for compiling lists of the members of the senior class;

A. Owens Bierman, for harboring at his doorstep an ambitious publication venture;

Rose Marie LeFebvre, for tolerating the yearbook staff's frequent invasion of her office;

The faculty and administration, for helpfulness and encouragement;

The General Office staff, for constant, good-humored co-operation;

and Eugene Rose, for endless patience.

We hear of a small Spanish café,
Remember the Brent boy? It's "Lester's Hide-A-Way!"
The entertainment is being supplied
By Clara Saxton as we arrive.
Several other friends of ours,
Into medicine diverted their powers.
Henry Cohen, to neurology,
Charlie Nash and Liz Kuhn to biology.
Avid assistance comes from a friend,
It's Carol Corwin — Gamma Ray technician, we apprehend,
But Robert Bessel should be given attention,
For he discovered this ray of previous mention.
Familiar nurses are on duty,
Laura Vogel, Lin Rodrigues, and Maureen Jowdy.
Faithful nurses Toussaint and Krizan
Help kind Judy Goetz with retarded children.
Now to Italy we forge ahead,
But it's swim, or hire a boat instead.
We see some old friends rushing by,
John Anthony's band is the reason why!
We stop at one of the canal-side piers,
Where Marylou Chmelko is selling souvenirs.
Many of our cronies have returned to school,
At Rome Central High they're teaching the rules:
Along with Celia Harco and Elaine Beczek,
Are Dick Sanicki and Gloria Smierciak.
A mishap spurs us without delay
To Rome General Hospital by the Appian Way.
We're greeted by Nurses Manforte and Walendzik.
Also, Nurses Breuel and Callihan tend to the sick.
Nurse Demici administers care,
And assistant Nurse Pahl is also there.
Our patient is bandaged by a familiar hand,
Is it Carol Anderson or Sue Van Houten?
One of our lot dons a sudden grin,
As he recognizes John Miller, the veterinarian.
A nurse passes by with a smile and a song,
We say "hi" to Joan Rompre and then "so long,"
The affairs of state intrigue are so much,
That we next head for the city council and such.
But on the way, we bump into
Lawyers Brooks and Chapman, going our way, too.
And to our amazement, Wanda Bourdette, we meet,
"Join Scroll-of-the-Month Club" she does repeat.
Judith Godin rushes by clinging to her horse —
She's riding in the Big "A" — Aqueduct, of course!
With G. J. MacDonnell, we had a short chat —
Did you know she's the roving Roman diplomat?
She takes us for a true Roman tour
So a peek at the Vatican, Louise Banks could secure.
Sally Taylor and Paula Holick
Are planning a world-wide frolic.
In Hawaii, Emma Mouning's learning the hula,
For Wayne Gowdy's new show — "Hullabalula."
The Royal Roman Navy gave us
Robert Clark, Ruth Coombs, and George Davis.
However, they'd do much better afloat
If they weren't using a rock-bottomed boat!
Jeanne Turner and Marietta Stevens, too,
Find that traveling is fun to do.
Stewardesses Grgach and Tomaz have their wings,
But how they'll get up there is another thing!
And how could anyone be nervous —
Now that Fred Kaltenstein is in the service?
Balboa is out on a trip,
He took Paul Ruopp to steer the ship.
Phyllis Cosgrove and Jeanne Bechaud hum —
"California, here I come."
We have not been able to meet everyone,
But our trip, indeed, was a great deal of fun.
Yet, where are those we didn't see?
We finally pool our resources to find where they might be.
Stan Derbin nearly went to R.P.I.,
(That's Rome Polytech — where the rating is high).
Mary Filippis — remember that name?
Writing for the "Daily Chariot" is her fame.
Steve Sachs built the first catapult,
Pat Cavanaugh tested it — it was a dolt!
The royalty of Europe — Isabella to Juliana,
Are wearing frocks labeled — "Designed by Mariana."
Norma Kalil has formed a group — Paces Corps —
Which will always be remembered, by reports.
An artist herself, she can't be stopped —
Yes, Pat Baldwin has opened an invention shop.
The Colosseum houses the Olympics, we know
So off to see George Tilbe we go.
The building was constructed by Wayne Richichi and Son,
And is now admired by Diane Edson.
Nancy Edwards suggests a Murtha play,
The latest, "DHS Wasn't Built in a Day!"
We pass a flock of children and someone we know well,
They're teachers Kate Natale and Margaret Zanzal.
Jim Gravius covering his beat,
Spoke of the people he chanced to meet.
Lorraine Jones makes popular clothes,
Suzanna Greisiger designs all those.
And who would their best customers be?
Why, Debbie Miller and Kathleen Bartley.
Louise Critelli's children tarry
At the happy home of Nadine Barry.
And Roger Hornecker, the engineer,
Began an important project here.
His staff came to insure success —
Rose Mazza and Barbara Nicholas.
Anthony Proli, to our recollection
Is still a master of coin collection!
He corresponds with another friend,
Dave McDermott is collecting coins again.
Some of our class had distant notions,
Rosana Pacific even discovered an ocean.
Sue Custance is headed for Australia,
Where Mary Ann Brock is raising Azaleas.
Ann DeSilva and Susan Halas
Are traveling to find a prince in his palace.
We hear that Maria Kutasi
Is leader of a African safari.
Captain Tim Murphy and Officer Pandolfi
Are paddling around the Persian Gulf-y.
Many of our classmates found
Art was the field for which they were bound.
Barbara Brunk and Kathleen Gilbert
Are considered gifted by the experts!
Susan Irvine, as everyone looks,
Is illustrating "Golden Age" children's books.
But where are all the rest of us?
To find out, we hire a horse and bus!
We ride to the center of town, post haste,
For our timekeeper, Barb Falcone, says there is no time to waste.
We fly past Stella Arcieri and friend,
It's Janice Glorioso, we do portend!
They're going to a meeting, they do yell —
Steinberg's Garment Guild, Local XXL!
Becky Brewer has made history,
She's the first woman doctor since 1 A.D.
Merchant Bob Thompson passes through —
He sells chisels to DaVinci and Michelangelo, too!
A "Continental" comes into view.
But it's a gondola, and Fred Berger's rowing, too.
It's recreation time again,
"Bowling," scream Manion and Henion.
The Roman fleet has come into port,
The Admiral is Bob Coviello, by report.
Connie Bonnacci and Michelle Moses
Are working with children counting noses.
We buy our tickets to return,
Lucinda Francisco is the agent, we learn.
We wave good-bye to eternal Rome,
And to Mary Ann Dzendzel in her canal-front home.
The Grecian grandeur beckons us next,
And so we continue on to our text.
Dana Kaufmann's company we do miss,
He's inventing a new language — I think it's English?
Dale Holly should be given credit
For recording 45's on discs of granite.
But, then we hear the fates at last —
Of those two endeared to our class.
They've written a book of high acclaim,
But for the moment I can't recall the name.
Carrying their manuscript, they walk us to the door,
It's "3001 Ways to Aggravate an Editor."
While Teresa Fiore records notes of our trip
Other travelers follow her at a fast clip —
They're John Renoff, Sandy Renner, and Peter Scalera
Who's designing Gothic homes on the Italian Riviera.
And so we find our classmates, as they were long years before
Still working, having fun, enjoying life the more —
Because they came from DHS, Class '65, you know,
And so to them this Prophecy we joyfully bestow.

Our classmates have wandered hither and yon —
Their paths have been diverse.
In our quest to learn of their destinies,
We go to England first:

As we before London's gates do stand,
The guard, Lawrence Keane, is first at hand.
And with John Snopkoski's roll of a drum —
The herald, John Potter, announces we've come.
An old renowned school is the first thing seen
With the teachers Sally Brown and Phyllis Recine.
A tournament is about to begin,
DeFabritis' horses are sure to win!
The Queen's Volleyball Squad is out on the court,
Karen Kaeser's team is best at this sport.
We stand in line to procure our ticket,
For we're anxious to see Lou Haddad play cricket.
The market is next in line,
Where in his own stall, Wayne Cuber we find.
As one of us is plagued by an ache in the tooth,
We head for a dentist, and find Lyn Pinkos, forsooth!
In the laboratory is a mad scientist,
To observe Dr. Matijasic we cannot resist!
Barbara O'Shea dashes off another letter,
With a stamp from Alice Pentin, what could be better?
As our path winds upward above the town,
For Elizabeth's palace we are bound.
The troops are drilling in a band —
And Keith Weiner is now in command!
We are stopped by McNulty — guard of the gates,
But we must move on to learn other fates.
The palatial beauty is enhanced with song,
And with Goodsell's choir, we sing-a-long!
The enchantment of music seems to persist.
As the guitar of Mary Schellinck, we just can't resist.
We approach the grand hall, but first in a nook
We spy Nancy Basher, balancing the books.
And David Goelz is by her side,
Upon whom, in finances, the court has relied.
(Misses) Triacca and Chelso in opposite niches,
Are transcribing scrolls with (Misses) Erickson and Hicks.
From her boudoir comes the royal beautician,
Why, it's Helen Bretts with Rodney Mailloux, the court physician!
(Misses) Baldwin, Rangoni, Haitsch, Bastian and Braun
Come as ladies-in-waiting — to wait on the lawn.
Painting the scene from his easel and stool
Is Vic "Rembrandt" Kenton — an old chum from school.
His avid assistant is friend Harry Brown,
By now a royal artist of celestial renown.
We are about to say good-bye,
And bidding adieu, toward the coast we fly,
Where Judith Clark is on a whim —
The English Channel she will swim!
But one is missing from our lot,
Could it be Sharon Cromwell we've forgot?
But since she has always wanted to stay,
To England and Sharon — farewell we'll say.
In the bonnie hills of Scotland old,
Judy Beagle is making her abode.
Joan Baker often runs into her,
She is still in pursuit of the "Lodguess monster!"
Some of our lot took off on a spree,
For the "Emerald Isle" we wanted to see.
James McNamara is having a lark
Running an Irish amusement park.
Teachers Maylise McNally and Kathy Shanley
Are renting a "sod" flat to Anne Killiany.
Stephanie Gieralt and Anne McInerney
Give us first aid as we continue our journey.
They work with Jim Flynn — that's not hard to seize,
His motto is "Sure, and we try to please!"
We pass Nancy McGowan — she goes by in a whiz,
As an abacus instructor, she's giving a quiz.
Rita McCarthy — her career she's surmounting,
She has her "MRS" degree and a "BA" in accounting.
The channel is rough, but we finally arrive,
And we find swinging Paris is really jive!
We're out at the pier by some we know,
Why, it's James Yonkers and Geraldine Tatroe!
We hop a fast carriage; we sit a good deal,
We went to Mike Pickwick's "Rent-A-Wheel."
He said all you do is turn on the ignition —
That wondrous invention of Charles Rener, electrician.
We tried seven times, and each time turned paler,
So we gave up and hired a driver — Donna Taylor.
At the gate we discover, by the scruff of the neck,
That poacher of poachers — Bill Chowanec!
We spy J. M. Conrad — that amorous doorman
Trying to meet Lady Barton, Straiton, or Norman.
The ballroom is waiting for the soiree tonite,
And Ann Krasow is decorating with all her might.
In a quiet corner sitting quite sadly
Is Dave Benjamin playing chess quite madly!
Larry Brownsell is an alchemist, we're told,
Trying to turn his chem book to gold!
Assistant Sue Troccola has committed a crime —
She misplaced the formula for "Love Potion No. 9."
And who's trying to sooth the King's hair-raising condition,
But Linda Bigladeri, the king's beautician!
The Queen's faithful attendant, June Peterson
Where angels fear to tread, she'll rush in.
The court physician (he's brilliant, they say)!
Is psychiatrist, Edward Canadé.
We learn of Bill Roth driving for Tom Morris
At the "Riviera 500" where he knows what the score is.
In the final stretch we're really in a panic,
Especially Den Devignez, his faithful mechanic.
We change our course and head for Spain
Where Betty Minish is singing "the rain is on the plain."
We're glad to know Hilda Jose
Is with us to translate what we say.
Meanwhile, Isabella is sitting on her throne,
Learning French from Joan Sansone.
And Lynall Fesh is curling her locks,
While Nancy Loya knits royal socks.
Nurse Caliendo is administering a pill,
Which Jane McGuire, scientist, brewed in her still.
Marie Franco is the scribe in the castle,
"Her name will live on," says a prophetic vassal.
We spot Joe Baiad — a perennial drifter,
And at his side, Bob Berggren, our Spanish weight lifter.
We're leaving the country — crossing the border,
And we spot Rich Heuser — in the Franciscan order.
But we hear there are more in Spain to be found,
So, with their fates in question, we turn around.
In our haste we must make a stop
At Almeida & Kravarik's Beauty Shop.
Since we are all interested in education,
We venture to see who chose this vocation.
Behind his test tubes we spy Paul Sluti,
Trying to make an ester that smells like tutti-fruiti.
Susie Kieras and Carole Ward
Have found their calling at the chalkboard.
And in the halls, who do we see
But assistant principal, Joe McKeefrey.
Since life in Spain is so exciting,
For pretty young ladies, it is inviting.
Ann Marie Seeley and Louise Moniz
Find their vocations as secretaries.
Linda Fuller and Kay Southworth
Are happy as scribes — just full of mirth.
Diane Williams and Dolores Fontaine
Are also occupied as secretaries, again.
Marie Braquez is still quite a gal,
She's on her way back to Portugal.
The business of Lois Fuller we pass,
She's selling brushes! (We doubt it will last).
Cindy Colt married a duke — how romantic,
In her own little castle overlooking the Atlantic.
The music is supplied by her own musician,
That's how Jay O'Donnell keeps his banjo in condition.
A new field has opened for our peers,
They are known as engineers (?)
William Peters and Joseph Magri
Are about to discover electricity.
They're aided by Ed Moros and Joe Staiti,
Don't tell anyone — but we think they're crazy.
The business world of Spain is alive
With members of the class of '65.
David Mleczko and Ivy Weiss
Are both executives — which is rather nice!
And we discover that much can be said
For the business Eugene Cesca has made.
Linda Skeen is also secure,
Her motto — "only your hairdresser knows for sure."
Kendall Sears has found little danger
In being a Spanish Forest Ranger.
Mark Maxim has started things to hum —
He changed his name to Mark Minimum!
Rich Theriault, an innovation he has —
It's a weird-sounding music — he calls it jazz?
Poor Paul Gassner — "Go West" was his thought,
But Spain was just as far as he got!
Kathy Ann Bates wanted government work,
Now, in the castle she's the head mail clerk.
Evening approaches — we seek entertainment,
But, as usual, between us we haven't a cent!

I, Robert Rodgers, leave all my teachers to the underclassmen. Now they're YOUR problem.

I, Kathleen Franklin, leave a nervous wreck — Mr. Tambler.

I, Jane Phillips, leave my inferiority complex behind.

I, Kenneth Ramey, leave my trumpet to anyone who is 'dying' to get into the band.

I, Kalmon Reistetter, bequeath my vaulting pole to any great pole vaulter.

We, the Class of 1965, bequeath:

to Mr. Murnane, an upcoming senior class, not so outspoken.

to the Class of 1966, a bubbling amount of school spirit.

to Mr. Merullo, a miniature "GRUB" so that he will remember us always.

CLASS PROPHECY

We, the class of 1965, are experiencing our own "rebirth." But, suppose that we found ourselves in the class of 1565 — the true Renaissance — what would our class prophecy foretell?

We, Luciano Lopes, Joyce Antunes and Rhenda Housen, leave our accents to any junior who can take the teasing.

I, Durante Fiore, leave to Mrs. Ingram a new set of unbreakable test tubes that don't leak.

I, Sue Custance, leave the following to anyone who needs security in numbers: my social security number, my driver's license, my zip code, my telephone number and my homeroom and house numbers.

We, John Krestofetz and Lynda MacDonald, leave our long eyelashes to any student who wants to get on the good side of his teachers.

I, Joseph Coniglio, leave my brother Bob my all-conference position just to keep it in the family. And I leave Bob to Mr. Edwards to make sure he makes that position.

I, Jill White, leave with seven dwarfs: Alfonso Palumbo, Joseph Pesente, Max Steinberg, Weldon Woodruff, Timothy Wrobel, Richard Potoczek, and Donald Giarratano.

Lois Ferris leaves a wheel.

I, Richard Hajjar, just "manage" to get out.

Robert J. Jones and Robert J. Jones leave Mrs. Wimmer still confused.

Frances Keane leaves "sparkling."

I, Eugene Licursi, leave Mr. Anderson to set up the microphones, alone.

I, Angela Masi, leave my nickname, Angel, to any devilish freshman.

I, Lynda Potter, leave my cramped hand to my penpal.

I, Jean Pierre Remond, leave my name to any French student.

We, Gerald Palanzo and Marie Felicissimo, leave our wornout books for display in the trophy case.

I, Betti Hill, leave with my sister, Lily, following behind.

I, Elizabeth Whitehead, leave my candy and gum to Roberta Hawks.

I, Leslie Hardin, leave my baton to future twirlers.

I, Dorothy McMahon, leave my place in the cafeteria line to my sister.

I, Dennis Plue, leave my winterized sneakers to Bruce Durgy.

I, Douglas Degrazzia, leave Carl Kravat's car to Gene Silverman.

I, Marsha Setzley, leave my love of reading, biology and art to my sister.

I, Barbara Stockman, leave my extreme knowledge of mathematics to anyone lacking a mechanical mind.

John Layok, our honest and faithful class treasurer, leaves with a new suit, a car, a plane, a TV set, a yacht, a penthouse, and a harem.

We, Andrew Tomborello and James O'Brien, leave our red hair to anyone who has a temper to match.

I, Richard Grgach, leave the food in the cafeteria to the Biology Club to analyze and to the Spanish Club to translate.

Maureen Coons leaves her name to Carey Caterpillar.

I, Margaret Dwyer, leave my initials to the medical profession.

I, Rose Marie Abraham, leave first.

We, Frank Trocolla, Norbert Mitchell, and Robert Wimmer, leave hoping the underclass girls can get along without us.

I, Martina Venturini, leave my freckles to any paleface.

I, Marilyn Hennessey, leave my mother in the cafeteria.

I, Carlton Leach, leave my lunch to any junior who needs it.

We, Richard DeSoto and Mitchell Ramey, leave our dance steps to Fred Astaire.

We, Virginia and Karen Strait, leave our names to any crooked juniors.

I, Chris Ambadges, leave my driving to anyone who dares.

We, Kathy Jaber and Betty Jane Jasinsky, leave our private P.A. systems to Mr. Murnane.

We, Jane Risso and Charlotte Byrnes, leave our Cleopatra look to Antony.

I, Richard Repole, leave the elevator tickets that I bought my freshman year.

We, Sharon Marmorstein and Aaron Collins, leave our problem with math to any intelligent freshman who can solve it.

I, Brenda Rangoni, leave my hair to any daring juniors.

I, Nancy Strusky, leave Mr. Palanzo my "proper pronouns."

I, Barbara Bush, leave DHS with one foot in the door to hold it open for the 8 Bushes who will follow.

I, Dale Schomber, leave my IBM card to Mr. Carlucci and Miss Waters.

I, John Rennoff, leave Steve Savage and Thorndike McKeever to Miss Sperber.

I, Mary Francis Trocollo, leave all my problems to anyone who can handle them.

I, Diana Thompson, leave DHS to my brother Bobby.

I, Joseph Urban, leave a pair of stilts to Mr. O'Grady.

I, Maureen Post, leave with no regrets.

I, Francis Valuzzo, leave my running flats to Gary Butler, who should be proud that I thought of him.

I, Jay Weiner, leave my knowledge-packed notebook to the DHS library.

I, Linda Perrotti, will a Betty Crocker cookbook to the cafeteria staff.

I, Jo Ann Telesco, leave my nails and my typing speed to Donna Cougle.

I, Joan Yasler, leave to a freshman my hunger for knowledge to soak up the world like a thirsty little sponge.

I, Elyane Battaglia, leave, galloping into the sunset.

We, Marie Massaro and Deborah Werner, will to DHS all our college catalogues.

Sandra Cruz leaves — quiet, isn't it?

ROSE Esposito leaves a thorn.

I, John Brooks, leave my apathy for the use of enthusiastic underclassmen (at 5% interest of course).

I, Mildred Floyd, leave my auburn hair to Helen Miraning, my black wig to Geraldine Scott, and my clothes to Brenda Scruggs.

The Will Staff should perhaps will to Mildred Floyd a large towel for decency's sake.

I, Lynall Fesh, will the speed which I couldn't attain in Steno I to a freshman.

I, Daniel Epstein, will my times for the low hurdles to anyone who may want them.

I, David Goelz, leave my messy bookkeeping work to anybody who wants it.

I, Roger Green, leave my maps of the school so no one will get lost.

I, Gail Grasseler, leave my driver's license to anyone who can use it.

We, Judy Chapman, Linda Hock, and Heidi Marsh, leave our shyness to any noisy freshman with a discipline problem.

I, Mary Magersuppe, leave math for good.

We, Linda Gore, Elaine Betts, and Ann Feeley, leave our gift of gab to some tongue-tied freshman.

I, Edward Kilian, leave my office slips to whoever wants them.

I, Sharon Hartell, leave my sister Sandy to hold up the family name.

I, Joanne Hottes, leave my sense of humor to a sad underclassman.

Rita and Anita Howley leave their flirtability to Mona Lisa Nelson.

I, Gail Heftler, leave my naturally curly, artifically straightened hair to some confused underclassman mophead.

I, Maureen Jugler, will to Sally Harrington my Senior theme, to do with as she pleases.

We, Lynn Kosach and Emily Luscky, leave our stylish walks to daring underclassmen.

I, Jeanette Gomoll, leave with a will but no way.

I, Sharon Gardner, leave my sneeze to Mr. Gubernick's next Art III Class.

We, Margaret Toole and Thomas Alcauskas, leave jumping with joy!!!

I, John Rathjen, leave 2000 lbs. of grass seed to keep reseeding our unending school lawn.

I, Orazio Strano, leave a ½ used AAA ticket to Mr. Yedziniak.

I, Michael Michaels, hereby will to some lucky junior at DHS the impetus to make the same generous contributions to the spirit of DHS as I should have in my senior year.

I, Elizabeth Minish, leave the stool to my top locker to any short junior.

I, Donald Dawson, leave the job of senior class president to any junior unlucky enough to get it.

I, Rolf Arend, leave to Miss McKenney my admiration of F.D.R., what little there may be.

I, Joan Allison, leave my Manter Hall to a promising Senior who will promise to burn it.

I, Carolyn Barabas, leave Pat Messer still rooting for our illustrious teams.

Patricia Kilcourse leaves her fire-engine red, Ghille, tie shoes to some daring underclassman.

Patricia Werdann, Raymond Gustavson, and Florence Gerow leave as quietly as they came in.

I, Craig Neidhart, leave my track spikes to that up-and-coming starter, Artie Hadad.

I, Donna Dow, leave the Dow Chemical Company to Mr. Novick.

I, Frank Brockett, leave my blonde hair and my bottle of peroxide to anyone who wants them.

I, Barbara Rogol, leave my secretary notes to any mummy who can understand hieroglyphics.

CLASS WILL

Back in the olden days
"Renaissance" filled the air.
The elite went to the plays;
the bourgeoisie to the county fair.

The fine arts were especially grand —
Such music, fine poems, great prose!!
Paintings of sunsets and man —
And in writing — anything goes.

The Renaissance left us great finds
And the Class of '65 does the same
So being of sound bodies and minds
We bequeath everything but our names.

I, Peter Scalera, leave my speed shop to a mechanically inclined junior.

I, Elizabeth Hatcher, leave the tan I got from skiing to some pale sophomore.

I, Mary Lou Fox, leave my coordination to cheerleader Jane Brenner.

I, Brian Silberlieb, leave my great Spanish vocabulary — CARAMBA!!

I, Carol Hess, leave my contact lenses to someone who constantly loses his glasses.

We, John Halas and Lynn Thompson, leave our height to some underclassman who wants to get into "adult only" movies.

I, Frank Schweitzer, leave my brawn to some brain.

I, Laura Divine, leave my typing staff spare fingers in case the others wear out.

I, Richard Van Harken, leave my height to Jack DeFlumeri.

I, Joseph Fecarotta, will all my crushed grape skins and one bottle of homemade Italian wine to all Italian underclassmen.

I, Irene Cypriano, leave the wonder of it all. The wonder of what it would be like on Septemper 9, 1961 and the wonder of what the future will bring.

I, Jerome Bielizna, leave to Coach O'Grady, the cross-country and track teams with the hope that they can function without me.

I, Francis O'Neil, leave the cafeteria a new cookbook, because the one they are using now must have some misprints.

I, Robert Cherry, leave a warm seat in detention hall.

I, Robert Fuller, being of unsound mind and body, do bequeath to DHS madras mosaic tile for all the cultured rah-rahs, and the elevator because it's too darn big to steal.

I, James Flynn, leave "dying" to be a mortician.

I, Chet Oseicki, bequeath to the underclass girls an old oaken bucket in which to catch the tears shed for me. To all my teachers, I leave the memory of my pleasant personality, ever-present smile, quick quips and 100% cooperation. Lastly, I leave to those who appreciated me most, the satisfaction of knowing that they will never have another student like me.

I, Marlene Chmelko, leave.

I, Mary Lou Chambers, leave rubber fenders to the Driver Ed. Course.

I, Mary Zarour, leave a set of smiling white teeth purchased at Woolworth's 19¢ sale to some toothless underclassman.

Ralph DeSantis and Eugene Davio leave to the regret of the football team.

I, Carol Beard, leave my sense of humor to Linda Musnicki.

I, Diane Cougle, leave my cheerleading spirit to "Smiles" Meggison.

I, Dorothy Battista, leave my wonderful personality, winning smile, and humility to anyone who needs it.

I, Jane McGuire, leave Mr. Ryan in peace.

I, Linda Rosen, will Mr. Rycroft to any other new student with a mixed up schedule.

I, Robert Wohlken, will my crazy art work to anyone who can understand it.

I, Judy Williams, will all of the patience I can spare to Mr. Flibotte and to Mr. Guckel in the hope that they may never lose theirs.

I, Wallace Whitlock, leave my well-read book on how to pass four years of high school with the least amount of effort, better known as — WHAT, ME WORRY?

I, Allyn Sweet, leave — hopefully.

I, Linda Teague, leave smiling, knowing that I won't have anymore book reports for English.

We, William Beschle and James Sasso, leave all our excess weight to any junior who can find it.

I, Thomas Sanders, will my picture-taking ability to other photography enthusiasts.

I, William Arndt, leave my mark on the junior class rings.

I, Frederick Berger, leave to the joy of many teachers.

I, Albert Clarke, leave the girls I knew for the class of 66.

I, Melinda Green, leave, hoping that peace and solitude will again reign in Mr. Guckel's homeroom.

I, Gerald Gereg, leave the happy people of DHS and ride off into the sunset still trying to think of something funny for my will.

I, Thomas Fisher, leave my track shoes to James Bailey in the hope that they will make him move a little faster.

I, Bonnie Bauer, leave my car to anyone who can start it.

I, Cathy Fitzsimmons, leave my freckles to any spotless leopard.

I, Jennie Ramos, will my big smile to some sad and deserving underclassman.

I, Wanda Olegniczah, leave a string of ex-boyfriends to my sister.

I, Bonnie Brower, just leave.

I, Hugh Tully, leave my sousaphone to Lowell Bartelme and my drum majorship to anyone who can fit the uniform.

I, Anne Murnane, leave to the underclassmen one well-used student council, many wonderful memories, and my father.

I, Mary MacDonald, leave what I don't want to leave but have to — the four wonderful years I've spent at DHS.

I, Mary Lou Chmelko, leave all my A's from business machines to any student who needs them.

I, William Berendt, leave my barbells and other exercising equipment to any underdeveloped freshman.

I, Judy Alger, will my ability to get along with teachers and to stay out of trouble to Ken Witzke.

I, Joyce Breuy, leave my seat in A Cappella choir to Janice Appell.

I, Patti Baker, leave my Weejans to someone who seems to need security.

I, Craig Conner, will my shot put to any 6'9", 310 pound sophomore.

We, Gail Doto and Larry Renna, leave our petiteness to anyone who wishes to get in the movies cheaply.

I, Thomas Morris, leave the keys to my G.T.O. to anyone who wants to get to school in 43 seconds.

I, Joan Chiarella, leave my seat on the school bus to anyone who is small enough to fit.

I, Kathleen Weeks, leave next year's Senior Ball to another hard working student.

I, Robert Grant, leave to wage the Civil War.

I, Connie Bonacci, leave Bogota to Colombia.

I, Judy Gudim, leave to Pat Beach my long straight hair which she would give anything to have.

I, Anna Bahr, leave to DHS my favorite saying, RATFINK!!!

I, Luis Gonzales, leave to the science department, "Directions to a Slide Rule" in 23 languages, including early Mandarin Chinese and Sanskrit.

I, Joyce Hartwell, will my "little green hat" to Berry Russell to be worn on every St. Patrick's Day hereafter.

I, John Rogers, leve to Mike Sachs, my abilitee to adap my vocabuleri and spellin' too any siduashin.

I, Barbara O'Shea, leave DHS just as it is. It's already got enough problems without my adding to them.

GRADUATION

Commencement exercises of the class of 1965 were framed in an impressive ceremony at the Osborne Street Stadium on the evening of June 24. President Donald Dawson conducted the proceedings and was the first in the class of 577 to receive his diploma. The class heard a profusion of praise delivered from Mr. Murnane and Mr. Sillari for its rapid adjustment to the new high school, for raising $1000 which were awarded as two scholarships to Mary Zarour and Richard Hajjar.

Student speakers were Ellen Rifkin, Henry Cohen, and Linda Steinfeld, whose essays dealt with the topic, "Challenges for America." The choir's singing, the over-capacity audience, and the radiant weather all combined to make the graduation ceremonies memorable.

BASEBALL

Danbury opened its baseball season with two brilliant victories over Norwalk (4-2) and Stamford Catholic (3-1), behind the strong pitching of Bob Dickinson and Larry Kish and the clutch hitting of John Sprindis, Frank Schweitzer, and Mike Bonnacci.

Paul Doto's pitching was superb in the next game against Trumbull, but the DHS batsmen couldn't click and a weak defense led to a 2-1 defeat. Danbury bounced back with a 13 hit attack to trounce Stamford High 8-2. Sprindis, Schweitzer, Davio, and DeLuca backed Dickinson's 6-hit pitching with a barrage of safeties.

A 2-0 defeat to Darien lowered the DHS spirit somewhat as well as its second place standing. The seventh inning came to be a nightmare for the Haviland men as they lost 6-5 to Greenwich in the seventh. Despite Sprindis's nine game hitting streak, Danbury dropped two more to Staples (8-1) and Roger Ludlow (4-1).

With two outs, two strikes on an Andrew Warde batter, and a 4-3 lead in the top of the seventh, victory slipped away as Danbury lost 6-4. After a 6-0 defeat to league-leading Rippowam, we lost another in the seventh inning, 6-4 to Stamford High.

The next four games resulted in defeats by Darien (5-2), Norwalk (5-1), Greenwich (15-0), and Staples (3-0) and Danbury couldn't get those valuable runs. The last game was played at New Canaan and the DHS nine set its sights on victory. A long homer off the bat of Chet Osieki gave Kish and Danbury a long awaited 5-4 victory .

Fine season-long performances by John Sprindis and Bob Dickinson earned them all-conference honors.

Danbury High School opened its 1965 outdoor track season on April 12 with an informal meet against Fairfield Prep. On Prep's wet, soggy track Danbury outran Fairfield 90-23, and the crack relay team of Siegel, De Santis, Michael, and Fisher went 1:36.8 in their first outdoor race.

When Norwalk High journeyed to Danbury for a meet on the Osborne Street field, the score after the last event was Danbury 94, Norwalk 51.

The O'Gradymen next traveled to Rhode Island where they ran Mt. Pleasant High of Providence, one of the top schools in that state. The final outcome, 75-56 in Danbury's favor, reveals an impressive margin of victory, despite the fact that there were only fifteen men on the DHS squad.

The Black Knights of Stamford next invaded Danbury, but they were repulsed in an 83½-61½ defeat which saw Kal Reistetter pole vault 11 ft. 2 in. to set a new school record.

The Danburians traveled to Greenwich where they had the closest meet of the season, winning by only two points, 73½-71½.

In the following dual meet DHS met the state champions, Staples of Westport. Despite a hard fight by the O'Gradymen, Danbury suffered its only defeat of the season, by a score of Staples 88 — DHS 57.

The next event on the Hatters' schedule was the FCIAC Relay Carnival in Westport, where they took third place. Danbury then engaged Darien on the Blue Wave's all-weather track. Here the sprint relay team lowered its own school record as the runners clocked 1:32.3 and the Hatters won 87-58.

The junior varsity had meanwhile been flexing its muscles and proved its outstanding ability against the varsity team of Kolbe High in Bridgeport, which they outran 94-46.

The final dual meet of the season pitted Danbury against Andrew Warde of Fairfield. The poor track was no hindrance to the O'Gradymen, who scored 87 to Warde's 58, winning the meet and completing a highly successful season.

Mr. Fred Kasack presents Rotary Award for the Outstanding Track Athlete of the season to Craig Neidhardt.

Captain: Thomas Fisher
Coach: Mr. O'Grady

FONTAINBLEU

The sparkling fountain in the Danbury High School courtyard and a fantastic mural, created by juniors Angela Kamienska, Nancy Rader, and Beverly Rogers, set the mood for the theme of this year's junior prom, Fontainebleu.

Co-chairmen Marlene Marcus and Al Washicko, working with an able staff and their diligent advisor Mr. Walens, prepared for the May 15 event.

After the grand march Associate Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Richard Rausch, crowned Sharon Wilkes Queen of the 1965 Junior Prom while King Jan Blonsky and the queen's attendants looked on.

Following graduation the senior class was treated to an all-night party at the War Memorial, sponsored by the Danbury Kiwanis Club. Among the entertainers were the Astro-Notes, the Vandells, Miss Danbury, and seniors Rich Theriault, Richard DeSouto, and Patti Baker. Records, a portable typewriter, two sets of luggage, and two portable television sets were awarded during the evening. Amazing amounts of free soda and food were consumed and the building rocked with enthusiastic, then tired, dancers until 5:30 in the morning.

GRADUATION PARTY

AUF WIEDERSEHEN

The Court: Jane Godbey, Patricia Keaney, Dianna Macchiaverna, Maryann Dzendzel, Charlotte Burns.

Auf Wiedersehen was the theme of the Senior Ball which took place on the evening of June 12, 1965. A myriad of flowers covered the school cafeteria and added to the prom's aura of a romantic beer garden. Seniors danced to the music of the Bernie Moore Quintet until the evening was highlighted by the selection of the Queen, Dianna Macchiaverna.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

May 25, 1965 was the date of the induction of thirty-eight juniors and twelve seniors into the National Honor Society. Rodney Mailloux presided over the ceremonies at which Mr. Fred Kasack of the Danbury Rotary Club presented pins to new members. Well-received speeches on the topics of character, scholarship, leadership, and service were delivered by Priscilla Weathers, Rolf Arend, Norma Kalil, and Barbara Bush, respectively.
